Herbert Recommends 'Flexible' Taxation

Public Vote On Bonus For Servicemen Suggested In Assembly Talk

BY HAROLD LISK
INS Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—Adequate school and municipal financial aid, a public vote on a soldier bonus, and a flexible taxation system were recommended to the 97th Ohio general assembly by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today.

The newly inaugurated Republican chief executive made his first appearance before the legislature last night. He deferred specific recommendations on a taxation program, pending receipt of a study-report on the present system.

However, the GOP governor did recommend immediate re-enactment of the state cigarette tax, the liquid fuel tax and the sixty-five hundredths per cent public utilities tax. All would expire this Spring unless re-enacted.

Higher Salaries Asked

Other chief points in Herbert's 17-point program called for increased state salaries in both apportioned and elective offices; the creation of a single department of conservation with cabinet status; prompt legislative action to protect the public interest in riparian areas; and a study of the liquor monopoly system to determine "what evils are inherent in the system and what action should be taken to eliminate them."

In his section on taxation, the governor pointed out that the last general assembly provided in special session for a study of the taxation system by the state tax commissioner.

Awaits Tax Report

"I am advised," he declared, "that this report will be forthcoming within two weeks. In fairness to all I consider it my duty to study that report before making any specific recommendations on these interrelated subjects."

However, he did specify that there should be a "reduction or revision of our tax structure so that we may avoid the accumulation of further excessive surpluses unless and until justifiable reasons have been established."

On the soldier bonus question, he recommended that "the people of Ohio be afforded the opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment providing a bonus for Ohio's World War II veterans."

He warned, though, that "calm and careful study should be given to determine ways and means of financing such a proposal with the view of submitting it at the next general election."

Marshall Takes Oath As Secretary; Denies Any Political Ambition

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Gen. George C. Marshall was sworn in at the White House today as secretary of state after declaring that he never can be drafted for the presidency or other political office.

Marshall said he was becoming secretary of state with the understanding that the post is not political.

President Truman declared, as the high office was entrusted to the wartime chief of staff, that America's foreign relations course "is in safe hands."

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson administered the oath shortly after 11 a. m. (Est.) in the President's office.

Marshall issued a formal statement divorcing himself from all connection with politics as he arrived in Washington this morning by train from Chicago.

He emphasized that he "could never be drafted for any political office."

Service Impressive

Impressive solemnity marked the ceremonies at the White House. The tall, graying master warrior, who now climaxes his long career in the service of the nation as a maker of the peace, listened with his right hand held high as the chief justice read the oath of office.

Mr. Truman and the retiring secretary of state, James F. Byrnes, stepped forward quickly and shook Marshall's hands warmly when the taking of the oath had been completed.

Strike Curbs Are Suggested

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The nation's leading mayors today heard three demands for legislation to outlaw utility strikes and prevent further labor strife in the United States.

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp., told the U. S. conference of mayors that legislation should be enacted to prevent annual repetition of "conditions we now face."

Rep. Case (R) S. D., author of the labor-curbing Case bill, declared that restrictions must be placed on unions through the modification of the Wagner labor relations act which he said was "impossible" to repeal.

Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, whose city was crippled by a power strike last year, declared that there should be some restriction on strikes on public utilities.

Lawrence warned, however, against taking away labor's "right to strike" and said unions should be "compensated" in some way for any privileges they lose.

In his address, Case declared that "everyone will suffer" from attempts to make up strike losses through wage increases instead of through higher production.

The congressman described the new Case bill as "better balanced" than the measure he introduced at the last session of congress.

In an unexpected speech before the conference, former Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York warned against "hasty" labor legislation. He expressed hope that no changes would be made in the Norris-La Guardia act which outlaws injunctions in labor disputes.

He declared: "That is a safeguard and as long as human nature is what it is we need that safeguard."

The ex-mayor said he favored establishment of machinery to set (Continued on Page Two)

REDS PROMISE NEWS FREEDOM AT CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, ambassador to Moscow, today reported new assurance from the Soviet foreign office that full freedom will be given correspondents covering the March foreign ministers meeting.

Smith in a message to the state department said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vyshinsky also informed him that there would be "no difficulty" about arrival of newsmen via United States air transport.

The ambassador added that quarters are being made available in the new Moscow hotel for both officials and correspondents.

Vyshinsky told the ambassador that the extent of broadcasting facilities which can be used has not been determined, but the U. S. envoy reported his belief that a "limited amount" of radio equipment would be ready for use.

GENERAL MOTORS PRICE INCREASE IS REPORTED

DETROIT, Jan. 21—The Detroit Times said today that the General Motors Corp. has increased prices on 1947 models from $17 to $193.

The new prices, the Times said, already have been sent to branches. Largest increases are on the station wagon models.

The $17 boost was listed for the Pontiac sedan-coupe.

TALMADGE SAYS HE WILL QUIT IF LAWS PASS

Georgia 'Governor' Offers To Resign If Thompson Will Do Same

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 21—Herbert Talmadge offered today to resign and submit to an election after the Georgia general assembly has enacted the state Democratic party platform.

He said that he would turn in his resignation provided that his rival for the governorship, Melvin Ernest Thompson, would do the same.

Talmadge made the resignation offer before a joint session of the general assembly where he had been invited to outline the policies of his administration.

Talmadge cited the law that gubernatorial authority would devolve upon the speaker of the house, Fred Hand, of Pelham, Ga., in event that he and Thompson resign.

Outlining a nine-point legislative program, adopted as the Democratic platform at the state convention, Talmadge emphasized that he feels it is his duty to see that the proposals be enacted before he quits office.

He appeared particularly anxious that the projected restoration of the traditional "white" party primary be carried out before he faces an election. He declared:

"I therefore propose as follows: That the legislature complete its duties in accordance with the Democratic party platform. After completion of this duty, if the lieutenant governor will resign, your governor will resign."

"The speaker of the house of representatives will assume executive authority. I will meet any candidate for the governorship of Georgia in a Democratic white primary to let the white people of Georgia determine who is their choice for governor."

Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson took steps today to remove state highway patrolmen from Georgia's capitol and challenged assembly-elected Gov. Talmadge to face the people of the state with him in a gubernatorial election.

At a news conference in his office in the senate chamber, Thompson revealed he had written a letter to W. E. Spence, director of the department of public safety under the Ellis Arnall administration, directing him to "immediately resume" active control of the department.

Thompson said he further directed Spence to:

"Immediately proceed to remove from the state capitol those employees of the AAA, Monday, at the Betz Restaurant."

Other proposed projects aimed to benefit the county's farmers were discussed but no action was taken for the same reason. Members of the Township Trustees' and Clerks' Association met with the AAA, and present also were a number of farmers.

Among those attending were John Boggs, AAA county chairman; Dewey Downs, AAA committee member; John Musser, district soil conservationist; and County Agricultural Agent Larry A. Best. Lawrence Liston, president of the Township Trustees' and Clerks' Association, was out of the city and unable to be present.

U. S. PLANE ON CHINESE FLIGHT SAID MISSING

SHANGHAI, Jan. 21—A United States Army plane carrying thirteen passengers and a crew of five was reported missing today on a flight from Shanghai to Kweilin.

The plane was last reported over Hangchow bay, 100 miles south of Shanghai, after taking off from Shanghai at 3:30 a. m. Saturday.

The passengers included a graves registration unit of seven members assigned to search for missing American bodies in the Kweilin area. The other six passengers were Chinese enlisted men of the U. S. Army.

Search planes returned to Shanghai this afternoon after failing to sight the missing craft.

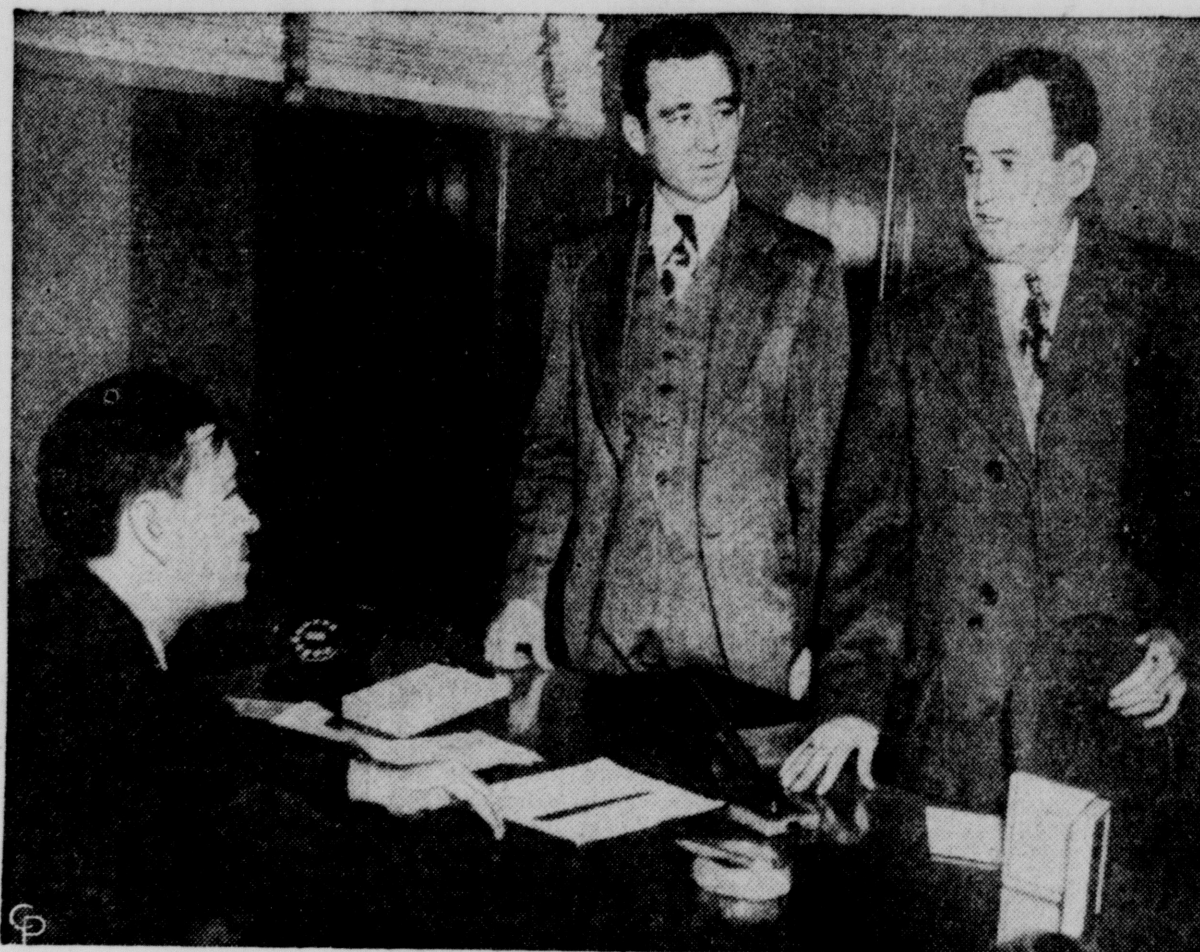

An all-out search will be launched tomorrow with B-17 and B-29 planes from Okinawa joining planes from Shanghai.

Names of the missing passengers and crewmen were not made public but next of kin have been notified.

Brazil Reported Near Open Break With Russia

By International News Service
Activities of the Communist party in widely-separated parts of the globe highlighted developments in the political field today.

In Brazil, for instance, the Communist party made sweeping gains in tabulation of results of state and city elections. In the states of Pernambuco and Sao Paulo, the left-wingers were well in front, and showing unexpected strength in other areas.

These gains by the Brazilian Communists came amid unconfirmed rumors that the Rio de Janeiro government was considering an imminent closing order against the party. They also coincided with similarly unconfirmed reports that Brazil's leaders were thinking of breaking openly with Russia over incidents involving Rio's diplomats in the Soviet Union.

A note from the Brazilian foreign ministry, meantime, gave added impetus to these rumors. The note flatly rejected Soviet charges that the second secretary of Brazil's embassy in Moscow had created a drunken disorder last month, resulting in his being beaten and expelled from Russia.

At the same time, the Brazilian foreign office criticized the Russians for the quarters in which they make the Brazilian ambassador live, Pimental Brando, the ambassador, incidentally has been given permission to leave Russia, ostensibly for reasons of health.

Plea of Pickaway county farmers for the building of dikes to prevent Scioto river flood waters from submerging lowlands was unacted upon, because of lack of available funds, at an all-day meeting of the AAA, Monday, at the Betz Restaurant.

Other proposed projects aimed to benefit the county's farmers were discussed but no action was taken for the same reason. Members of the Township Trustees' and Clerks' Association met with the AAA, and present also were a number of farmers.

VOLSTEAD, 87, DIES; FATHER OF PROHIBITION

GRANITE FALLS, Minn., Jan. 21—Funeral arrangements were being completed today for Andrew Volstead, author of the prohibition act and former Minnesota congressman, who died last night at his home in Granite Falls. He was 87.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.

Known as the father of prohibition, Volstead declared that when his act was still young that it was effective. The eighteenth amendment, or Volstead act, was passed in 1919.

But shortly before the law was repealed in 1933, Volstead admitted that "perfect prohibition is as impossible as perfect prevention of any crime."

Volstead was defeated in 1922 by the Rev. O. U. Kvale, who proclaimed himself "drier than Volstead."

FLOOD OF BILLS DUE AS HOUSE, SENATE MEET

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—The senate and house met this afternoon with the first of a flood of bills due for introduction in the house.

Both the senate and chamber adjourned until this afternoon after joining in joint session to hear Governor Herbert's message.

Four measures were introduced in the upper house, including one by Sen. Fred Reiners (R-Cincinnati) to wipe out an unemployment compensation surtax imposed on payrolls of war industries over and above the regular rate. The surtax was imposed in 1943 and has since brought in 22 million dollars as a cushion in BUC funds for employees of war-expanded industries.

Sen. John Morrison (R) proposed to convey state canal lands in Summit county to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, and Senators Reiners, Fred Seiber (R-St. Marys) and Margaret Mahoney (D-Cuyahoga) introduced a measure to repeal 256 obsolete, antiquated, redundant sections of the general code.

The fourth measure, by Sen. Frank Whitmore, Republican majority leader from Akron, would prohibit municipal officers from attending conventions at municipal expense unless specifically authorized to do so.

FLIGHTS CANCELLED

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21—Pan-American Airways announced today that eight flights between Miami and Havana will be canceled this afternoon because of an "imminent general political strike affecting the entire Havana area,"

HERRIOT NAMED ASSEMBLY HEAD

Four Major French Parties Agree On Aged Leader; Troubles Continue

PARIS, Jan. 21—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, the grand old man of the radical Socialist party, was elected president of the French national assembly today.

Herriot, running with the support of the four major parties, received 429 of the 584 votes cast.

He succeeds socialist Vincent Auriol who was named president of the fourth French republic.

Herriot's success was assured when the Communists voted to give him their support.

The chances of the veteran radical Socialist had been enhanced a short time earlier when the Socialists decided to ballot for him.

Herriot was assured support of three of the four major political groups, when the Popular Republicans (MRP) announced its members would be left free to vote as they choose.

The Socialist decision to support him was likely to create new difficulties between that party and the Communists, inasmuch as the latter group expected this support for Jacques Duclos as they backed the Socialists Vincent Auriol and Paul Ramadier in the races for president and premier, respectively.

Some Communist quarters regarded the Socialist move as a trick, which had been completely unanticipated.

Prior to this sudden turn of events, top communists were reported ready to insist that Duclos was entitled to the post, which is equivalent to the speaker of the American house of representatives.

Last night Duclos made a speech which made political circles set up and take notice, anticipating an increased demand on the part of the Communists for greater representation in the new cabinet.

Duclos, however, hastened to explain that his remarks had been misconstrued. He formally notified news correspondents that he had not demanded the interior and foreign affairs ministries as well as the national defense portfolio for the Communists.

RUSSIAN DROUGHT SAID TO BE WORST ON RECORD

MOSCOW, Jan. 21—The Soviet government revealed today that last Fall's drought embraced a larger area than the one of 1921 which caused the deaths of a million and a half people through starvation.

The report, the first comprehensive statement on the drought, said it was unprecedented in 50 years, but that hardship was kept at a minimum by emergency means for food economy and distribution.

The state department pointed out that Russia called for extradition of the erstwhile diplomat and noted that no extradition treaty exists between the United States and the Soviet Union.

GOVERNMENT IS FACED WITH BIG DEBT TO FIRMS

Contractors Would Expect To Get Back Amounts Up To $500,000,000

JUDGE IS DEFENDED

Attorney Acting For Union Scores Criticism Of Judge Picard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall told congress today that portal-to-portal claims which the war department would have to pay might total 400 to 500 million dollars.

Royall, testifying before a senate judiciary subcommittee, said that "by and large" the government would have to reimburse most portal pay payments made by the wartime cost-plus-fixed fee contractors.

At the same time a Detroit lawyer defended the fairness of Judge Frank A. Picard, accused in the senate hearing of a pro-labor attitude in the Mt. Clemens (Mich.) portal-to-portal pay case.

Ernest Goodman, attorney for the Mt. Clemens pottery workers whose right to portal pay was upheld by Judge Picard, telegraphed the subcommittee that criticism of the jurist was "a brazen and unwarranted attack."

Goodman declared his impression was that "Judge Picard's numerous observations during the trial were in most cases favorable to the Chrysler corporation."

Royall said that so far approximately 300 million dollars in back portal claims have been "asserted" by unions in court suits but he added:

"They probably will exceed 300 million dollars and may reach 400 or 500 millions in claims against the war department."

In a second category of Army contracts — lump sum agreements covered by the renegotiation law — the department believes that portal claims could not literally be held against the government except for 1944 and part of 1945.

But Royall said that despite the absence of "legal liability" he felt the government might have a "moral" obligation to reimburse contractors who had "scaled down" their contracts with the Army on the basis of reduced costs.

ANOTHER 'RED' IS SOUGHT AS 'DAHLIA' KILLER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21—The search for the slayer of Elizabeth Short, the "Black Dahlia," moved back to San Diego today as police sought a second "Red," possibly a Marine, in connection with her sadistic murder.

Three witnesses reported seeing the "Dahlia" with the new suspect the day before her mutilated body was found in a vacant lot in Los Angeles.

The trio declared they saw the girl in a cafe six miles north of downtown San Diego.

They insisted the "Red" they observed with the girl believed to have been the Dahlia was not Robert (Red) Manley.

Manley was released from custody on a suspicion of murder charge. He had freely admitted two San Diego trysts with the movie-struck Dahlia, but he established an airtight alibi covering the period when she was slain.

U. S. REFUSES TO TURN MAN OVER TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The United States today rejected a Russian demand for the return of Kyrill Alekseev, former attaché at the Soviet embassy in Mexico City and now "in hiding" in New York.

The Moscow demand was based on the contention that Alekseev, who announced his refusal to return to Russia after denouncing the Soviet regime, had embezzled embassy funds in Mexico City.

The state department pointed out that Russia called for extradition of the erstwhile diplomat and noted that no extradition treaty exists between the United States and the Soviet Union.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klerman

(Exclusive) Moscow will not protest the results of the Polish election. I have that from my Droschky driver.

It may take a few days to finish counting the ballots but fortunately the verdict was arrived at before the trial.

The ballot was as secret as a creditor's letter in a cellophane envelope.

Under the new democracy in Poland any citizen could vote regardless of party affiliation provided he belonged to the right party.

I hear the White House cabled Warsaw, "we protest the election in Poland." Warsaw cabled back, "we protest the election in Georgia."

That put both sides in a quandary. A quandary is a Potsdam declaration signed in invisible ink.

Sweden is having trouble, too. . . Thousands of citizens protesting rationing have thrown away their liquor rationing books. What makes it strange is that they were cold sober.

GOVERNOR ASKS NEW FUNDS FOR CITIES, SCHOOLS

bonus proposals have been introduced in the senate. Cost of such a bonus has been estimated at between $25,000,000 and a half-billion dollars.

For hard-pressed school teachers and school districts, the new governor suggested "that adequate funds be made available to aid and assist the boards of education in meeting their present critical problems."

"The shortage of trained teachers and capable non-teaching personnel," he declared, "is due, primarily, to inadequate salaries and wages."

He also suggested that additional appropriations are needed in the field of higher education through support of state universities.

Local Aid Needed

"Local government financing," he asserted, "should be put on a more permanent basis in order that we might avoid the constant recurrence of demands by local taxing units for state aid."

"It has been suggested that the state abandon some fields of taxation in order to enable local governments to enter them. Another proposal is that the state definitely earmark certain taxes so that they may be returned to the counties on a tax source basis for distribution therein by the respective county budget commissions."

Herbert declared that a readjustment is possible and that "a combination of these methods might result."

Would Fight TB

Other points taken up by the governor included:

Recommendation of the adoption of a vigorous constructive program to fight tuberculosis.

The expansion and further improvement of rural and farm-to-market roads and the improvement of arterial highways to and through cities and villages.

The consideration of the effectiveness of federal laws and those of other states which provide cooling-off periods, mediation and arbitration in labor disputes.

The emergency appropriation of funds for development of the Mt. Vernon state hospital and the purchase and remodeling of the Cambridge state hospital.

Consideration of adequate facilities for the Ohio State fair.

The enactment of laws applying to the insurance business, particularly in respect to rate-making, "so that the public will be afforded the same measure of protection as is provided by the federal anti-trust laws."

Delinquency Study Urged

The creation of a legislative commission to study causes and possible steps which the state might take toward the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The consideration of enabling legislation to allow municipal governments to eliminate blighted areas and provide off-the-street parking facilities.

Provision for adequate facilities for state departments, "particularly in the city of Columbus where state-owned buildings are filled and overflowing."

Herbert concluded his message on the same note he sounded when inaugurated a week ago. He declared:

"May I say, again that the time has arrived for the practice of rigid and efficient economy in the operation of government. It is time to give the taxpayer a 'break.'"

18-YEAR-OLD WIFE ASKS DIVORCE IN LOCAL COURT

Mrs. Doris Speakman, 18-year-old bride of one year and the mother of an infant son, filed suit for divorce in Pickaway county common pleas court, Tuesday, asking Wayne Speakman of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

Declaring they were married in January, 1946 she alleges that her husband failed to adequately provide her with necessities of life and that he "struck and beat" her. Mrs. Speakman also asks for alimony and the custody of the child, Anthony. Being a minor, Mrs. Speakman's suit was filed for her by her brother, Irvin E. Funk, as her next friend.

Speakman pleaded guilty, Sunday, before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland to a charge of assault filed by his wife. He was fined $10 and costs and was committed to the county jail. However, Monday Speakman paid the fine and costs and was released.

Judge William D. Radcliff granted a temporary injunction restraining Speakman from molesting Mrs. Speakman during the pendency of the divorce action.

In another divorce suit, filed Tuesday, Mrs. Sarah Ann Bowen, Ashville, charges Norman Bowen, Pontiac, Mich., with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Her petition, which contains no details of the accusation, says they were married Jan. 17, 1936 at Monroe, Mich., and that they are childless. Mrs. Bowen asks to be restored to her maiden name, Sarah Ann Franks.

JURY CALLS IN OFFICIALS OF THREE CITIES

STUEBENVILLE, O., Jan. 21—Officials of three Jefferson county cities appeared today to testify before the county grand jury investigating crime and vice in the Steubenville area.

The mayors, safety directors and police chiefs of Steubenville, Mingo Junction and Toronto were subpoenaed to appear. In addition, Peter Aepfer, part-owner of slot machines, appeared in response to a subpoena.

The grand jury investigation followed a drive by members of the Steubenville Ministerial association to rid the area of vice and gambling which they charged were being carried on openly. They sought unsuccessfully for permission to arm themselves to quell crime.

Two Jefferson county common pleas judges charged the jury to investigate not only vice and crime but also to inquire into any possible illegal relationships between officials and the underworld.

Socialist bloc, favored by the government, won a hands-down victory in Sunday's parliamentary election, gaining 327 of the 372 seats contested. Opposition groups insist the balloting was not free.

At his news conference a few minutes later, Talmadge, informed of Thompson's statement, asserted:

"Mr. Thompson has no authority to give orders as governor of Georgia."

After revealing his letter to Spence, Thompson declared:

"I here and now challenge Herman Talmadge, who received only 675 write-in votes in the last election, and Roy Harris, who up to now has dominated Herman's every move and who is trying to become dictator of Georgia, to contest with me before the voters of the state for the governorship."

Amplifying his statement, Thompson said that he not only considers himself acting governor, but he was a candidate for governor "at the earliest time that an election by the people can be held under the constitution."

Indicating that he was gaining support from other department heads, Thompson said that W. N. Pate, supervisor of purchasing, had informed him he recognized Thompson as acting governor instead of Talmadge. Pate's department supervises all purchases by the state government.

Thompson also revealed the appointment of John H. Goddard, of Griffin, as an assistant attorney general. He added that he was not considering any other appointments at the present time.

COLUMBUS MEN PAY FINES IN 'BOTTLE' CASE

While physicians Tuesday sought to save the sight of one of Thomas George's eyes, George Nichols, 23, and Richard Stone, 23, both of Columbus, who allegedly hurled a beer bottle through a window and injured George, were free after each paid a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

George, 53-year-old South Bloomfield barber, was a patron in the Ed Price tavern at South Bloomfield late Saturday night, according to Sheriff's Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern L. Pontious, when the bottle crashed through the front window of the tavern. The two Columbus men were subsequently jailed.

The deputies said their investigation showed that Donald Brannon, son-in-law of the proprietor, had ejected Nichols and Stone from the establishment after they had allegedly become troublesome.

Brannon filed affidavits against the pair, charging intoxication, disorderly conduct, and malicious destruction of property. A hearing was held late Monday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland in Circleville. It was stated that the malicious destruction of property charges would not be pressed for the time being.

The President expressed regret that illness had forced Byrnes' resignation. He added:

"I feel the duties of the secretary of state are in safe hands. The President asked Marshall to say a few words.

Marshall then said quietly: "Thank you, Mr. President. I appreciate sincerely this honor and your confidence."

Top Leaders Present

Top national leaders were assembled in the president's office for the ceremony.

Besides the President and Byrnes they included other members of the cabinet, congressional leaders of both parties, among them Senate President Vandenberg (R) Mich., and Sen. Connally (D) Tex., who aided Byrnes throughout the "big four" peace conference.

White House Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen that Mr. Truman had not been aware that Marshall was going to make a statement on his determination to avoid any connection with politics.

Ross said the President had not discussed political matters with Marshall.

The new cabinet member, first presidential soldier to guide the nation's foreign relations, declared on his arrival in Washington:

"I want to be specific and emphatic against any mention of my name in political matters."

Rumors Spiked

His statement apparently was inspired by rumors that in being placed in the state department

post Marshall was being groomed for the possibility of a candidate for presidency or vice presidency in the next election.

Arriving in Washington at 7:30 a. m. (E.S.), Marshall, accompanied by his wife, remained aboard the train until after 9 o'clock.

After being questioned about his immediate plans, Marshall finally brought the talk to a close by saying:

"I think this is as good a time as any to terminate speculation on my political attitude."

"In assuming the office of secretary of state at least it is my understanding that the office is non-political."

"I will never become involved in political matters."

"I therefore cannot be considered as a candidate for any political office."

Then referring to the talk of a "draft" for political office, Marshall emphasized "I could never be drafted for any political office."

The idea of charting weather observations was suggested by the German physicist, Brandes, in 1820.

the dispute, but only after "thoughtful consideration" of the labor problem.

Wilson called for the following changes in the nation's labor laws:

(1) Clarification of the legal and judicial procedures through which the government's power to protect "the interests of its citizens" must be "clearly defined and understood."

(2) Modification of labor laws "so that they will no longer encourage industrial strife."

(3) Elimination of the closed shop, which he said "violates the basic rights of individuals."

(4) Elimination of industry-wide bargaining, which he branded as a "monopolistic power" of labor unions.

(5) Clarification and establishment of strikes, sympathy strikes, and all forms of boycott.

(6) Clarification and establishment of "limits" on collective bargaining.

(7) Elimination of "the privilege of collective bargaining" held by government and municipal employees.

FARM HOME IS DESTROYED BY MORNING FIRE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beavers and family were homeless Tuesday following a fire which destroyed the five-room house on Route 56, three miles east of Circleville Tuesday morning.

Only a part of the household goods were saved, Circleville firemen reported. Beavers said the fire started from a stove in an out-house. Firemen said the house was destroyed.

Firemen reported the fire was out of control when they arrived. They said Mrs. Beavers only recently had returned to her home from the hospital.

The house is located on a farm owned by Elizabeth Hitler.

Firemen were called at noon Tuesday to 215 West Mound street, where an overheated furnace had caused alarm.

Herbert Requests More Money for Education

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Highlights of Governor Herbert's 17-point program presented to the legislature last night, included:

Taxation

"In 1945 there was accumulated a surplus of more than 20 million dollars in the general revenue fund. In 1946, the additional surplus amounted to almost 70 million dollars of which 40 millions was sales tax surplus. There is now credited to the postwar reserve fund 90 million dollars which has not been otherwise appropriated.

"I do not believe in the principle of maintaining taxes for the sole purpose of creating a huge surplus. . . .

"The amounts necessary to meet our obligations in the field of education, both in our public schools and in the state-supported universities, yet remain to be determined. Also, there are definitely increased operation costs in the welfare department. . . . Local governments are demanding increased assistance from the state.

"Various proposals to solve the problem of assistance to local governments are being made. It has been suggested that the state abandon some fields of taxation in order to enable local governments to enter them. Another proposal is that the state definitely earmark certain taxes so that they may be returned to the counties on a tax source basis. . . . A readjustment of presently shared revenues is possible as is also the assumption by the state of some present local obligation. A combination of these methods might result.

"My general objectives remain unchanged. They are:

"1.—Adequate and economical administration of the various departments of government and full discharge of the state's obligations.

"2.—To assist in a mutually beneficial solution of local government finance.

"3.—Reduction or revision of our tax structure so that we may avoid the accumulation of further excessive surpluses unless and until justifiable reasons have been established. The state veterans' bonus and the method of financing proposed should be considered in this regard."

Veterans

"The people of Ohio should be afforded the opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment providing a bonus for Ohio's World War II veterans. Calm and careful study should be given to determine ways and means of financing such a proposal with the view of submitting it at the next general election."

Education

"The critical shortage of trained teachers and capable non-teaching personnel is due, primarily, to inadequate salaries and wages. . . . I recommend that adequate funds be made available to aid and assist the boards of education in meeting their present critical problems.

"Additional appropriations also are clearly indicated if we are to meet our full responsibility in the field of higher education."

Municipal Governments

"I recommend the consideration of enabling legislation designed to facilitate the elimination of blighted areas in our larger cities and to enable our cities to provide off-the-street parking facilities."

Liquor Control

"I recommend that a study of our state monopoly system as well as those of other states be made by the general assembly to determine what evils are inherent in the system and what action should be taken to eliminate them."

Highways

"I recommend the immediate expansion and further improvement of rural and farm-to-market roads, the improvement of arterial highways to and through cities and villages, and the modernizing of obsolete sections of trunk-line highways.

"I favor the use exclusively for highway purposes of all revenues received from taxes imposed upon the use of motor vehicles on the public highways and the fuel used in such vehicles.

"In 1944, congress enacted into law an expanded post-war highway program. Ohio is to receive approximately 20 million dollars a year for 1946, 1947 and 1948 by matching a similar amount. I recommend the appropriation of the necessary amounts to enable Ohio fully to participate in the

Delayed Arrival

AMONG the arrivals aboard the General Meigs in San Francisco was Rabbi Simon Kalish, who finally reached the U. S. after years of fleeing persecution. Accompanied by rabbis and students, he fled Poland in 1939, crossed Russia through Siberia, and wandered down the coast to Shanghai, where he was interned by the Japs. As the ship docked, he said happily: "At last we are here." (International) federal postwar highway program."

Insurance

"I recommend that the general assembly enact laws applying to the insurance business, particularly in respect to rate-making, affording the public the same measure of protection as is provided by the federal anti-trust laws."

Conservation and Natural Resources

"I recommend the creation of a single department of conservation with cabinet status. All phases of conservation of natural resources should be united and administered by one department.

"It is obvious to anyone who has seen the waste lands in our state that reclamation and conservation of strip-mined properties are essential. It is my recommendation that the report of your strip mining study commission be considered in connection with the conservation program and that prompt appropriate legislative action be taken to protect the public interest."

State Salaries

"We cannot expect indefinitely to attract qualified men and women into the administration of the state's multi-million dollar business at salaries established in some instances as far back as 40 years ago. . . .

"I recommend that the salary increase now in effect be continued and that those appointive state officials whose salaries are fixed by statute receive increases commensurate with the responsibility and dignity of their respective offices.

"Although I make no recommendation regarding salaries for elective officials, may I suggest that the foregoing observations are likewise fully applicable to them."

Agriculture

"I recommend an extension of the livestock and plant disease control programs to increase production of farm products. The present Ohio state fair facilities are inadequate and consideration should be given to provide suitable accommodations."

Civil Service

"I have requested the civil service commission to begin its examinations for the department of liquor control where the percentage of provisional employees is presently at an all-time high. I recommend that you provide sufficient funds for the conduct of examinations in other departments."

Health

"Ohio is now last among the 48 states in expenditures to fight tuberculosis. . . . By adopting a vigorous constructive program, we can minimize, in great measure, the curse of tuberculosis in Ohio.

"I recommend your consideration of proposals which include: "1. Construction of 300 bed hospital in connection with the Ohio State University medical center which will provide diagnosis and surgical treatment for the entire state.

"2. Establishment of four 200-bed hospitals on suitable selected sites to provide adequate facilities in areas where there are none at present.

"3. The institution of a program of state financial assistance to counties maintaining such facilities."

Labor

"Congress is presently considering legislation designed to expedite the orderly settlement of labor-management disputes. Several states have enacted legislation to provide cooling-off periods, mediation and arbitration. I recommend that the general assembly consider the effectiveness of such laws and determine the advisability of similar legislation for the state of Ohio."

Public Welfare

"I ask that the general assembly study the advisability of proceeding toward the purchase and remodeling of the Cambridge state hospital property.

"I shall soon submit additional requests for emergency appropriations for several other welfare institutions."

Public Works

"Consideration should be given to provide adequate facilities for our state departments, particularly in the city of Columbus where our state-owned buildings are filled and overflowing. . . . I recommend that the general assembly give consideration to the creation of a commission to study this problem."

'NUMBER' KILLER IS INDICTED BY FRANKLIN JURY

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Earl Wright, 42, who allegedly murdered his 75-year-old mother Jan. 10 because a "number" told him "her time was up," was under first degree murder indictment today.

A Franklin county grand jury returned the indictment yesterday after hearing how the self-styled minister confessed to police that he beat his mother to death with his fists and an iron footstool when she told him to turn down a radio.

Wright said a number, 709, he had chalked on the side of a stove led him to kill her.

The grand jury also indicted Jefferson M. Shavers, 25, Columbus, for first degree murder in the Dec. 4 shooting of his brother-in-law, George Sington, 21.

Second degree manslaughter indictments were returned against Charles J. McCarthy, Dayton, and Robert E. Shell, Chicago, in connection with traffic accident fatalities.

LARAIN, LEO REPORTED ON WAY TO WEDDING

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Movie Actress Laraine Day and Leo (The Lip) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, were winging their way to Juarez, Mexico, today, supposedly to be married.

They left last night on an American airlines plane. The film player was divorced yesterday from Ray Hendricks, an airport manager, and, according to Hollywood reports, she intends to divorce him again—getting a Mexican decree—before she marries the loquacious headman of "Dem Bums."

Miss Day, confronted shortly before she left with a report that marriage was on the program, at first denied it and then replied: "You already know. What more can I say? Yes, it's true."

The Laraine Day-Durocher romance has been in the air for weeks, with reports it would lead to the altar followed by reports it wouldn't. At one time Hendricks threatened to file a cross-complaint to his wife's petition for a divorce, naming "Lippy."

However in yesterday's divorce proceedings there wasn't the slightest mention of the Dodger manager.

SEED SITUATION REPORTED BEST IN FOUR YEARS

The 1946 production of field seeds has been termed the best in four years by seed specialists of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus. Only one shortage loomed on the seed horizon, according to their report, and that was medium red clover which will not meet the demand despite the fact that 1946 production was 21% greater than that of 1945.

Prices on some seeds have risen somewhat above those allowed under ceiling prices, the specialists report, which has affected the general supply. Indications point to a carryover this year, a condition which was not strong during the war years.

Red clover production, the specialists pointed out, was higher in 1946 due to the government's subsidy program which allowed farmers $3.50 per acre for harvesting and provided them with another nine cents per pound if they sold their seed to dealers before Dec. 31, 1946. However there was no carryover from 1945 and non-seed-producing areas will find seed short.

Alfalfa seed showed the greatest increase in 1946 with a 41% gain over the previous year. Average of the six principal legume and grass seeds was 17 per cent larger than in 1945 and 27 per cent above the 1935-44 average.

OHIO'S GROUP OF UNDEFEATED TEAMS SMALLER

More High School Fives In First Losses; Chillicothe Still Among Leaders

BY JOHN BARRINGTON
INS Sports Writer

Only a baker's dozen or so high school quintets pursued their merry way down the rainbow trail today toward the goal of an undefeated season.

Actually, victims in the erstwhile undefeated ranks were fewer than usual last week—chiefly because the starting field was smaller.

Greater Cincinnati saw two winning streaks shattered and two others continued. Canton McKinley was left with the only perfect mark in that northern city as Lehman fell by the wayside after winning ten straight.

Newark St. Francis was upset by Zanesville St. Thomas, 43 to 41, and thereby had a 15-game skein fractured. The next night, St. Francis bounced back to whip Ohio Deaf, 37 to 26. Delphos St. John registered Elida's first loss in 13 games, 40 to 36.

Cincinnati Elida also staged a comeback, drubbing Roger Bacon, 62 to 25, after losing to Indianapolis Cathedral. Cincinnati Walnut Hills topped with Hughes, 35 to 20, but was upset by twice-beaten Hamilton, 39 to 35.

Lockland Wayne and North College Hill both continued to win. Wayne trounced Lincoln Grant, 57 to 30, while Hartwell fell before College Hill, 57 to 23.

Canton Lehman, after a number of close calls, was upset by Youngstown South, 34 to 27, Saturday night. The previous evening, Lehman had racked up a 42-38 decision over Timken.

Canton McKinley's string stretched to ten with a double weekend success. Lincoln fell on Friday, 43-32, and the next night Youngstown Rayen was a 54-to-27 victim.

Nick Stevenson of the Bulldogs stole the show from his All-Ohio teammate, Pete Spera, against Lincoln with 22 points.

Cleveland was well represented by four unbeaten teams—Benedictine, which has won 22 straight, South, Euclid Shore and Westlake.

Bluffton's crack outfit chalked up two more for 11 in a row. The victims were Lima St. John, 62 to 34, and St. Mary's, 66 to 46. Neil Schmidt, brilliant Bluffton forward, hit the basket for 29 against St. Mary's.

Salem had a narrow squeak in defeating Warren, 42 to 41, for No. 7. Toledo Central breezed past Scott, 49 to 31; Chillicothe bounced Wilmington, 35 to 24; Upper Arlington toyed with Columbus Academy, 51 to 28, and Bryan spanked Montpelier, 41 to 30.

Newark, Ashland, Findlay and East Liverpool were among once or twice beaten fives that looked impressive. Newark held its Central Ohio league lead by edging Zanesville, 47 to 44; Ashland (8-1) smashed Sandusky, 58 to 37; Findlay (8-2) won an easy 54-28 victory over Fostoria; East Liverpool, loser only to Salem, downed Steubenville, 57-44, and New Philadelphia, 56-46.

$75,000 PRIZE LIST ANNOUNCED FOR SPEEDWAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21—Wilbur Shaw, general manager of the Indianapolis motor speedway, announced today a guaranteed prize list of $75,000 for the 31st annual 500-mile race next May 30.

He declared the 1946 entry blank listed prizes totaling $61,500, but the speedway voluntarily increased the amount to $75,000 in order to make possible an all-time "melon" of $115,450 when the 33 contestants received their checks on the day following the race.

Shaw announced that changes in regulation for the 1947 event remove all minimum weight requirements and restrictions on body styles.

The only requirement this year will be the cars are heavy enough to be "trackworthy" in the opinion of the technical committee.

MOUNTAINEERS AGAIN ONE OF NATION'S BEST FIVES

ALTHOUGH only two of the 1945-46 team are regulars on the current squad, the University of West Virginia cagers once again are headed toward a top berth among the nation's quintets. Coached by Lee Patton, the Mountaineers have romped to wins over Fairmont, Carnegie Tech, Maryland and Penn State and head for New York where on Jan. 9 they meet St. Francis at the Garden. Last year the WVU team won 24 out of 27 games and third place in the Invitational tourney there. Two regulars from last year, Clyde Green, guard, and Capt. Leland Byrd, are regulars this year. Among the newcomers who have won spots on the club is Fred Shaus of Newark, O., a 6' 4" giant. (International)

OHIO STATE'S WIN STREAK IS HALTED AT PITT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—Optimistic hopes that Ohio State had struck a winning basketball stride died aborning today before the greater weight of a staunch Buck road jinx.

Tippy Dye's Bucks dropped a 51-41 decision last night at Pittsburgh against the same Panther team they defeated in the first game of the season.

The loss was Ohio State's seventh straight away from home. The Bucks are still looking for that first road victory. At home, they have won three out of four. In losing, the Bucks suffered a relapse from the class they showed in whipping Northwestern Saturday. The Bucks led the Panthers by one point 21-20, at half-time but fell behind after the intermission.

Leading Ohio State efforts for the third straight game were a pair of comeback-minded 1945-46 regulars whose indifferent performances early in the year cost them their first team berths.

Jack Underman, lanky Bexley center, followed up his 17 points against Northwestern with 12 last night. Bob Bowen, Martins Ferry veteran, dropped in ten from a forward position.

A dispute with three minutes to play delayed the game nearly 20 minutes. After Pitt's Eddie Latagliata committed his fifth personal foul, Ohio counted a free throw and the Panthers a basket before the scorers could stop play and remove Latagliata.

SOFTBALL MEET SET FOR SUNDAY

Managers, Sponsors, League Officers Urged To Attend First 1947 Session

Despite the fact that snow flurries were noted Tuesday and the temperature was about the lowest of the year, some Circleville residents were thinking about softball.

President Ed Amey of the Night Softball league announced that the first meeting of the year would be held Sunday afternoon at Hanley's. Invited to the meeting are all persons interested in softball. Particularly invited are all prospective sponsors, managers and league officials.

Eight teams participated in last year's successful season. Officers chosen at the banquet which officially closed the season will be in charge of the league this summer. In addition to Amey, they are John Heiskell, secretary; Nolan "Nubby" Sims, treasurer; Clark Will, William Hamilton, Roy Beatty and Don Henkle, members of the softball commission.

Sunday's meeting is set for 2:30 p. m. in the banquet room on the second floor at Hanley's. League officials are hoping for a representative group of sponsors and managers so that preliminary plans for the new season may be made early.

HANK GREENBERG PACING FLOOR—WIFE EXPECTING

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—Hank Greenberg was pacing the floor today but he was not worried about his contract negotiations with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mrs. Greenberg, the former Carol Gimbel, is expecting a baby today or tomorrow.

Hank said he would be ready to talk business with Roy Hamey, general manager of the Pirates "as soon as the baby arrives."

He added: "I'll not have any difficulties reaching an agreement."

FELLER SLATED TO SIGN UP FOR RECORD SALARY

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—Bob Feller, Cleveland's prince of hurlers, is slated to make baseball history once more today when he signs his 1947 contract to become the highest paid performer in major league history.

Fireballer Feller and youthful Bill Veck, Indians' president, will meet today in Cleveland. If all goes as expected, Feller will put his signature to terms which will net him well above the $80,000 high grossed by New York's Babe Ruth.

Last year Bob just missed the mark. Working on a flat salary, plus attendance bonus, he earned an estimated $75,000, due mainly to Veck's amazing showmanship.

BROWNS SIGN THREE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—Jack Carpenter, 235-pound tackle from the University of Michigan, was signed to a contract today with the champion Cleveland Browns of the All-America football conference. At the same time, General Manager-Coach Paul Brown announced the signing of two right halfbacks to bolster one of the few spots where the team showed a weakness last season. They are Jim Dewar of Indiana University and John Duda of the University of Virginia.

which revived Cleveland baseball attendance.

Feller will have much to say in favor of the pay hike. Besides setting a new major league strikeout record last season, Bob hung up his second no-hitter, pitched a pair of one-binge affairs, and topped the American circuit with 10 shutouts and 26 victories.

REVISED PLANS FOR ERIE-OHIO CANAL READY

Inland 'Seaport' For Upper Ohio Valley Seen By Waterway's Use

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21 — Revised plans for construction of a Lake Erie-Ohio river canal that would give the upper Ohio valley an inland "seaport," soon will be ready for presentation to congress.

Col. W. E. Lorence, Pittsburgh district Army engineer, said today the new canal would, under the new proposals, provide for handling of some lake carriers into Pittsburgh. The canal has been in various blueprint stages since 1939.

The canal's cost has not as yet been definitely computed. However Colonel Lorence explained that plans are far enough along "to start construction tomorrow."

The proposed canal would run from Ashtabula, O., to Rochester at the mouth of the Beaver river, 27 miles below Pittsburgh. The 14-foot channel would run up the Beaver and Mahoning rivers, through the Summit canal, Grand River reservoir and North Canal—a total length of 105 miles.

Colonel Lorence said that the original overall cost was estimated at 240 million dollars on the basis of nine-foot channels.

Costs of a 14-foot channel would be much higher. In addition, construction and labor costs have risen sharply.

The Army engineer pointed out the deeper channel would allow use of the canal by huge, self-propelled lake carriers, as well as river towboats and barges already operating on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and their tributaries.

Iron ore, for example, could be brought directly from Michigan and Minnesota mines to Pittsburgh steel mills via the channel, if it were dug. Similarly, coal to Lake Erie ports could be moved directly from Ohio and Monongahela river mines.

NAVY LAUNCHES PROBE OF CRASH OF TRANSPORT

WAVE Killed, 20 Escape When Naval Plane Cracks Up At Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 21—The Navy launched an official investigation today into the crash of one of its own transport planes.

One enlisted WAVE, a member of the crew, was killed when the big four-engined hospital-type craft crashed at fog-bound Oakland municipal airport yesterday but 20 others aboard escaped death. The name of the dead girl was withheld.

All 20 survivors were given hospital treatment. Eight required surgical treatment but none was considered critically injured.

The injured included L. E. Pinkerton of New Bloomington, O., who suffered abrasions, and John K. Hiles of Mt. Vernon, O., who received lacerations.

The craft was on a regular run from Moffett field on the western side of the bay and was scheduled to pick up several hospital cases and proceed to Patuxent River, Md., via Los Angeles.

Commander R. C. Knowles of Moffett field was named to head the inquiry into the accident.

The plane was being "talked down" to a landing through the fog banks by GCA—ground controlled approach—when it crashed. A preliminary Navy statement said:

"A possibility is that the pilot took over visually without being relieved by the GCA controller, mistaking the mud flats for the runway."

The pilot, Lieut. Clyde B. McKinney, Glendale, Cal., suffered lacerations in the crash but the co-pilot, Lieut. (jg) F. A. Michalek, of Great Mills, Md., was more seriously injured.

DOCTOR CLAIMS GUM CHEWING IS AID TO HEARING

BOSTON, Jan. 21—All the jokes and jibes about stenographers and telephone operators notwithstanding, gum chewing has the approval today of a doctor who said it aids in preventing deafness.

Dr. Robert H. Veitch, director of the deafness clinic of the Massachusetts Osteopathic hospital, told a convention that the common cold often caused ear drum retraction. Repeated swallowing which occurs from gum chewing helps cure this retraction.

HOME INTERNATIONALISM

"YOU could talk about internationalism until you were blue in the face . . . but you couldn't love the world as a vast democratic state until you'd learn'to love your own little bit of ground, your own fields, your own river, your own church tower."

This quotation comes from Hugh Walpole's The Secret City.

"I want every man to be proud of the community in which he lives; I want every man to live that his community may be proud of him."

Thus spoke Abraham Lincoln.

Now that the United States has become a world power, with its eyes more and more on world questions, it's a good thing for Americans to think about their own backyards, and their obligations to them. While charity need not stay at home, it must begin there.

Internationalism and patriotism are not mutually exclusive, but American domestic affairs must be right before this country can lead the world. Happiness, prosperity, justice, economic and political strength in these United States mean the same blessings in equal ratio for the world. For whether Americans like it or not, they have taken on world obligations, and these can be adequately discharged only if home affairs are in order.

SPRING IN CATALOGUES

HOW glorious are the nasturtiums! How tall the spikes of red, white and purple double larkspur! And did anyone ever grow such lima beans or corn that the very sight of them makes one's mouth water? What crisp green spinach and what giant red, gold and orange zinnias. And look at the snapdragons! There must be some of these in the garden next summer.

The winter-time indoor sport of half the country is on. The seed catalogues are coming in every mail. It may be blustering outside, with snow in the wind and ice on the walks. It's Summer time under the living room lamp. Gardening has begun.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

WITH President Truman calling for a $37 billion dollar budget and even the strictest advocate of economy unable to suggest a cut below 29 billions, it seems a far cry from 1880. Then the House of Representatives changed hands in the fall election, largely because it has dared to spend $1,000,000,000 in a single year. Even more remote are the days of Jefferson, who governed the country well on $3,000,000 a year.

Possibly nothing else in modern life interests so many people so much of the time as the numberless ways in which our present generation serves sausage.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a morning of March in January. Clouds and winds and spots of sunshine. Now and then rain. Temperature mild. Strange Winter, this one of ours in 1947. Reasonably easy on the coal pile. Wonder how many will turn to gas or oil before time for the next outburst by John L. Lewis? Plenty, if what I hear bears fruit. The miners finally have reached the point where they are strangling the gold-egg goose. They not only are making coal burning too costly, but too uncertain.

At the plant did pick up a marked magazine and in it found an Eschelman Red Rose dog food ad. And it showing pictures of prize winning Beagles reared and owned by our own Charlie Smith. Some of the best Beagles in America produced here in Pickaway county. Orders come from all over the land, and delivery is followed by letters of appreciation and pleasure. Yes, we do ok here in most lines.

Chatted with Vaden Couch and found him all grins over a new fishing reel. And in the dead of Winter. Well, as practically everyone knows, fishermen are a little screwy. I'm one and I have a reel just like Vaders and it also bought in the dead of Winter. Already in flights of fancy it has landed more fish than all the rest of my tackle. Yes, a little screwy.

Lunched with Bill Betts, who was full of appreciation of the 4-H club members in Wayne township. The kids painted and lettered all the mailboxes in their township, not only favoring the box owners, but Bill the rural mailman as well.

Met up with a neighbor who is in the market for some furniture, but who a few nights ago heard news commentators predicting a drop of at least 100 percent in furniture price within the next 90 days. Some of the information put out by some of the big-shot commentators would result in the outright slaughter of even a cub reporter in most news rooms. The commentators depend on speed of chatter and emphasis

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The Pachydermic proportions of the federal debt of about $260 billions is furnishing an elephantine inspiration behind the rather warm debate developing over federal finances and, frankly, is splitting some of the Republicans in congress. Certain stories have appeared generally in print suggesting revision of the Republican plan for a flat 20 percent slicing would be advisable because of debt necessities. Rather openly the congressmen on all sides are mentioning the debt in their statements as reasons for what they variously wish to do.

Now this elephant is not as heavy as it has been publicly weighed. Not much genuine or original thought has been devoted to the debt.

Thirty-one percent of the debt is held in bonds by commercial banks (figures are actually from June last year but the situation has not materially changed since then). That means your deposits in the banks rest to a considerable extent on the bonds, as everyone realizes. But, as no one seems to realize, those banks pay a high income tax rate on the interest they receive from the same government bonds. The rate on corporations is a flat 24 percent normal tax plus a surtax of 14 percent on the entire amount, if over $50,000 at least. Thus if a bank is a corporation and makes more than $50,000, it may pay back to the federal government 38 percent of the interest it receives.

Individuals hold 23.5 percent of the debt and must pay rates similarly high on interest they receive; corporations and associations hold 9.9 percent, insurance companies 9.3, federal reserve banks 8.8 and would you believe it—the federal government owns 10.8 percent of its own debt upon which it must pay interest to itself.

So while the budget contains the elephantine figure of $5 billions for annual interest payments on debt of $260 billions, it neglects to note how much of the $5 billions it gets back. Some authorities guess a considerable portion of the cost is recovered. This is the point (more clearly stated) to which I made passing reference in a recent column. Some individuals pay back as much as 60 percent in taxes of the interest they receive from the government, and perhaps the corporations more. The government merely keeps these two considerations in two different pockets. The spending pocket has been widely advertised but the receiving pocket has been largely invisible in the congressional discussions.

An editor long-distanced a call for more details about the taxes on a person earning $50 a week in addition to my somewhat confusing previous reference. The internal revenue bureau form (1040) calls for payment on that sum of $6.75 a week for a person without dependents. (The tax is specified at $352 a year on $2600). On a person with one dependent, the tax is $257 on $2600 or $4.94 a week. Thus it is practically accurate to conclude that the average person earning $50 a week pays more than $5 because without dependents they pay $6.75. They work more than one-tenth of the year for the federal government but the man making more works a much greater portion of the year for his tax.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T GIVE WARNING

AMONG ALL the spots in which a player should not make a business double, the outstanding is that in which he is likely to scare the opponents out of a beatable contract into a makeable one. That applies alike to slam, game and part-score contracts. The prospective doubler should be particularly wary if the opponents have bid a couple of different suits, or more, so that there is high probability another suit will break fortuitously for them.

It's pretty hard to imagine a more unkind double than South made, when he could take three trump tricks beyond peradventure of a doubt if the opponents played the hand at hearts. If he had been prepared also to double 6-Spades or 6-No Trumps, in case his double scared them into that, then it would have been o.k. But he had no defense against those declarations. South led his diamond K. North overtaking with the A and switching to his heart 2. After taking that, East took out the hostile trumps with the K and Q, then spread his hand.

If South had kept his mouth shut, and merely exulted silently, when West was in 6-Hearts, his side would have scored four tricks, one in diamonds in addition to three in trumps, and so would have beaten the contract three tricks.

After West's 1-Diamond, North's 2-Clubs and East's pass, what should South bid?

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

CHAPTER ONE

HER VOICE was shaking with resentful anger. "Men like you, Mr. Bogard, seem to think a woman shouldn't have anything to do with business. I suppose you think we should just stay home and have babies."

"It's certainly one occupation men can't compete in," Cliff Bogard nodded in entire accord, and once again he saw her eyes gather fire. He pretended to busy himself with his safety belt—there was no earthly sense to all this fighting.

But they just hadn't got along. Everything had gone wrong since he first saw her. Everything. Because of her, he had junked his own plans and started on this fool's errand; because of her, he was being bounced around in this asthmatic sewing machine five thousand feet above the jungle.

For three bumpy, rain-lashed hours they had flown up-river, buffeted by savage gusts, bucking a wind that grew ever stronger. Twice the little plane had made wide detours to avoid storm centers—already they were low on gas and overdue. And all because of this ivory-skinned, red-haired person across the aisle.

Reluctantly he admitted she might be called lovely, in a remote, withdrawn sort of way—lovely, and a meddlesome nuisance. In the four hours since they met she had acted like everything from a frightened kid to a stubborn bully. Mostly she had been plain bossy. He frowned, partly in anger, partly in speculation—there was something about her that didn't quite click. And something about her name that raised vague memories. Janet Norman. He had an irritating sense of having heard it before.

Cliff looked at her again—not over twenty-five, maybe less. It was hard to tell, because of that trick she had of withdrawing into herself, either from shyness or as a screen against his curiosity. She was tall, and very trim in the tan traveling suit, shoulders broad and carried well back. Beneath the hat her thick, coarse hair was richly bronze, so that the sun, breaking through the clouds, filled it with a million sparks. There was warmth and rich vitality about that hair; there could be warmth and vitality about all of her if she would let herself go and be human. At first he thought her eyes were black, then he decided on dusky blue—then that he didn't know. They weren't exactly unfriendly, those eyes, but wary. They were taking no unnecessary chances in a world that was unpredictable at best.

With growing disapproval he looked at the little metal sketch box in her lap. So she dabbled in that stuff! An artist. He didn't need an artist. He wasn't sure what he did need, but it certainly didn't include artists. Then he realized that the dark eyes were watching him.

"Have you seen this?" She held up a magazine.

"What is it?"

"All about you." In a clear, precise voice she began reading.

"Peacetime demands have intensified the rubber problem. With the controversy over the effectiveness of synthetic rubber still raging, the newly revived Rubber Division has announced it will insure a supply of natural rubber for the U. S. A. by creating a permanent industry in South America. The white hope of the Rubber Division is big, good-looking Clifton Bogard, recently picked to bring the New Dixie plantations of South America into production. Bogard is a wise choice. Known from Rio to Laredo as a two-fisted, hard-boiled realist with few illusions, he has already made—and lost—two fortunes. Now he is on his way to New Dixie to make—or lose—a third."

She glanced up. "You don't look old enough for all that."

"It doesn't take long to go broke if you put your mind to it."

She laughed. There was an unsuspected lilt to her infrequent laughter that made you wish she did it more often. "Shall I read the rest?" she asked.

"Just repeat that part about my good looks."

But she shook her head and read on.

"The New Dixie rubber plantations are the government's best bet. Established in the late days of the rubber boom by a colony of United States citizens who migrated to South America before the Civil War, the plantation can be made to produce the highest grade rubber in the Western Hemisphere."

"Getting the rubber out may not be easy. One well-known operator has already tried—and failed. It looks like a tough job, but Cliff Bogard can be a very tough man."

Janet Norman closed the magazine. "Maybe that's your trouble—you were too tough." She looked at him in the detached way one looks at a laboratory specimen in process of dissection. "Maybe it was your toughness that got you into this jam."

"Maybe," he amended, "maybe all I needed was your Olympian wisdom."

She ignored that—she had a way of ignoring everything she didn't like. "What made you decide to open up the New Dixie plantations?" she asked.

His lean, tanned face went suddenly somber. "What difference does it make? For one thing, I had the machinery, and a gang of wild Irishmen who needed work. So I looked into it."

"What did you find?"

"I found that one man had tried to open up those same plantations just a few weeks before. He'd been told to get out of the country and stay out."

"Did he go?"

"He went so fast he didn't stop to empty his warehouse. It's still up the river, full of machinery. When I saw him down on the coast he told me the story about a gang called Blacklanders who live near the plantations and don't want anybody there. They must have treated him pretty rough—nothing could have persuaded him to go back. He was washed up. So I took over his option, bought his warehouse, and moved my boys up from the Argentine. Then I went to New Dixie to look at the plantations."

"And got thrown out yourself."

"Yes, but not by the Blacklanders. In my case it was the New Dixie authorities. They held me at the boundary for two days, told me they'd decided to recall the option, and next morning they shipped me back to the coast."

Bogard's slow, deliberate manner of speech gave his words grim emphasis. "That put me in a sweet spot. When you've borrowed up to the hilt, time counts. I began to build fires under the government officials to make the New Dixie crowd stick to their option, and then Washington cabled me to hold everything. So for three weeks I held everything while the storage charges on my machinery whittled down my bank account, and the men on my payroll had nothing to do but eat their heads off and raise heck with the local officials—I nearly went broke bailing them out. Then yesterday Washington cabled that everything was fine—they were sending someone to straighten it all out."

Janet Norman nodded. "And they sent me."

Cliff sighed. Yes, they sent her. He had gone to the airport that morning expecting an official Washington dignitary, or perhaps a whole delegation, and found this tailored, copper-haired girl whose outward self-assurance was curiously belied by her frightened eyes. She was traveling on an official business visa, and presented Cliff with a letter from the chief of the Rubber Division, asking him to be guided entirely by Miss Norman's judgment.

The first clash came when he learned she had reserved two seats on the plane leaving for New Dixie that very morning.

"But they just got through kicking me out of New Dixie," he objected. "What makes you think you can persuade them now to take me to their bosoms?"

"Because I know them," she answered shortly. "I lived there."

"That may seem like a good reason to you, but it doesn't to me. What I need is someone who can put on the pressure and get them to honor my option. That certainly makes more sense than flying back on the chance you can talk them into changing their minds. If they say no a second time, all the king's horses won't change them."

"They won't say no. They're just suspicious of outsiders. It took years for my father to win their confidence. Please leave it all to me."

Patiently Cliff had tried again. "Look. This job is no peanut undertaking, and it's important to more people than me. My equipment alone adds up to three hundred thousand dollars, and I have to train an army of rubber gatherers before I get a cent of it back. If I don't start soon I go broke, and if I go broke, a lot of men will be out of jobs and out of cash, and the United States will be shy a good many tons of top grade rubber. They're all banking on me, and I can't let them down."

"Then just let me handle it." Her tone was the tone one evoked to placate little children, and Cliff's collar went suddenly tight.

"Mama will fix, will she?" He drew a deep, exasperated breath and turned away—after all, he had been told to place himself in her hands.

Property, law and military matters are well signified, however. If this is your birthday, you are adaptable, fond of good times, easy-going, and somewhat apt to take things for granted. You enjoy traveling and will do a great deal of it. Mrs. Phillips Reviews Book At Monday Club

Mrs. Davis Reports On Cleveland's World Forum

Mrs. T. L. Huston, president, presided during Monday club meeting, held Monday evening in the Trustees' room of Memorial hall. Miss Eleanor Snyder served as secretary, in the absence of Mrs. G. H. Adkins. Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mrs. Charles Gilmore and Mrs. Clinton Tomlinson were named to serve on a committee to collect used magazines for the Pickaway county home. Members of the club, voted to contribute to the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Ray Davis, south-east district president of woman's clubs gave a brief resume of the Time-Cleveland council forum, which was founded 21 years ago by Newton Baker. Mrs. Davis said, "There were 23 renowned speakers from 13 countries. The forum's two subjects for discussion were, What does the rest of the world expect from the United States? What is the United States going to do about it?"

Brooks Emeny, chairman of the council said "It is the essence of democracy that people can talk freely, it is the peril they can talk ignorantly". Mrs. Davis told of her general impression "First an undercurrent of fear present in all the speeches. Second, fear of Russian and Communism. Third, fear of starvation and hopeless poverty. Fourth and last, fear of the atomic bomb." "They want United States to protect the world from the atomic bomb." The people are looking to the United States, and they know we Americans are their only hope. "These men were most sincere and conscious of making the most important speech of their lives," she stated.

Mrs. Robert Adkins, chairman of the evening program, quoted, "Every American finds fascination in the discovery of the strange circumstances by which familiar names came into being" and presented Mrs. G. D. Phillips, speaker of the evening in a review of the book "Names on the Land," by George R. Stewart.

Mrs. Phillips opened her discussion by stating that "Mr. Stewart had contributed another book, unique in the field of Americana. With a wealth of historical detail, he traces the origins and evolution of the principal places and names in the United States. Names have arisen in every conceivable fashion, by description, patriotic commemoration, ownership, accident and by irony. Humor has been a motive, along with the love of beauty, religion, advertising and sheer vanity."

Mr. Stewart was born in Pennsylvania. A graduate of Princeton University, and did his post-graduate work at the University of California, and Columbia University. At the present time he is Professor of English at the University of California, at Berkeley.

Mrs. Phillips in her review of "Names on the Land" said, "Once from East Eastern ocean to western ocean, the land stretched away with out names. Nameless headlands split the surf, nameless lakes reflecting nameless mountains, and nameless rivers flowed through nameless valleys in to nameless bays."

"Men came at last, tribe following tribe, speaking different languages, and thinking different thoughts. The names grew out of life and life-blood. The names were good, and they were closely bound with the land itself and the adventures of the people. No one knows when man came or who gave the first names."

"An Indian tribe entering a new country, faced the problem of what to name their new locality. Rivers were the closest of all to life of the primitive man. Mountains, generally were unnamed, as they were so huge and vague. They named some 'high peaks', because they were landmarks and lakes because they fished there. To say that a name is Indian is even less, than to say it is European, for among the tribes the languages differ, much more than English from French, Dutch or Russian."

Mrs. Phillips, told of the evening of April 2 1513, the first and lasting, name was given by men who came from overseas. Ponce de Leon and his crew looked into the sunset, saw a flowering land, and remembering that it was only six days after the Easter of Flowers. Named the new land, Florida.

"Ohio is an Indian word. The river was given that name due to the description. 'Oh' in the Iroquois language means road or river, while 'to' in the Huron language means fine or beautiful. The French wrote the whole word as Ohio, meaning beautiful river. The men then began to speak of the Ohio country, meaning the region north of the river."

"Shortly before the Revolution, they added suffixes to names. Burg is German or Dutch, borg is Swedish, bourg, French, burgus, Latin, burgo, Spanish, bury, English and burgh is a Scotch suffix. Therefore people said, "What burg do you come from?"

"In our early history of New York, like most American cities, Mrs. Phillips said, they had followed the European system of naming a street, to change its name at almost every intersection. In time to come they found out that the names of short streets had become, an inconvenience and they began to combine the streets, so that a single street name, began to cover a mile or more territory. In December 1793, New York adopted a system of house numbering."

"Ohio was unusually hospitable to foreign names. Most of the European capitals from Lisbon to Petersburg, had namesakes in Ohio before 1840. The appearance of many names, expressive of modern ideas, continued to show that American imagination was not decadent Post offices were called, Xray, Electron, Radium, Gasoline and Radio. The variety of our names, arose naturally. The period of active naming extended over four centuries. During which time customs and fashions had a chance to change. Names drew upon various languages and races. The work was shared among all classes, from border ruffian to Boston Brahmin."

In conclusion Mrs. Phillips, quoted directly from her book, "Names on the Land". "The land has been named, and the names are rooted deep. Let the conqueror come, or the revolution rage; many of our names have survived both, already and may again. Though the books should be burned and the people themselves cut off, still from the names the patient scholar may piece together some record of what we were."

Guest Night Observed By Child Study Club

Mrs. Fritz Sieverts, North Pickaway street, entertained members and friends of the Child Study club, Monday evening, for the club's annual guest night. Mrs. Dane Patrick, Kingston, was assisting hostess at the affair. Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick, president, expressed greetings to the guests on behalf of the club members. Mrs. Hillaire Haecker offered a group of accordion selections, "Take Me Back to Sorrento," "Blue Danube Waltz" and "I Will Return."

Mrs. W. J. Herbert presented Mrs. Margaret Teeters, guest speaker from Lazarus book department. She chose for her subject, "Books for Children." Mrs. Teeters stressed the importance of mental nourishment and the effect of stimulation of books in the mental development of youngsters.

"As a background for the appreciation of books a mother should begin reading and reciting to a child by the time it is two weeks old. Mother Goose is the first step in establishing the reading habit, which will pay untold dividends to the youngster throughout life. Reading out loud instills a desire for literature."

"There are many considerations to be used in choosing children's books. A large book is desirable for the young baby, followed by smaller books which may be easily handled and carried about." Mrs. Teeters considers illustrations to be as important as reading matter, when choosing literature for a youngster. "Children like pictures with bright colors and a lot of subject matter. Choose a book for its illustrations as well as its author. There are many adults who collect children's books, purely for the worthwhile illustrations, which are to be found in many."

"Keep in touch with the child's reading, but never restrict his reading matter." Mrs. Teeters stressed that it is wise to keep desirable books available. "One should never worry or attract undue attention to literature that is seemingly unsuitable. Never discount a child's intelligence by offering books beneath his age level. It is better to have reading matter too advanced to stifle and bore a youngster with that which is too elementary."

Mrs. Teeters showed a selection of recent children's books, which she recommended. Following her lecture she gave a short discussion of each book. To illustrate the pleasure that all individuals derive from being read to, she concluded by reading, "Randolph the Bear, Who Said No."

A short business meeting followed, and Mrs. John Heiskell, secretary, submitted her report. Members voted to contribute to the March of Dimes. "Children Object" by Sabra Holbrook was donated by Mrs. Clarence Clark to the club library.

Guests were served refreshments at a long table, which was centered with a bowl of yellow and white chrysanthemums, flanked by tall lighted yellow tapers. Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick presided at the tea table.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

The arguments being developed, chiefly in Democratic circles but now also eating their way into the Republican tax theory, to upset the flat 20 percent cut, are therefore considerably unrealistic.

In this connection, a tax expert in congress has been found who has pointed out to me the place in the income tax instructions where you are told you must get back the 3 percent normal tax on income from federal bonds. This provision is obscured by a headline for which a copy reader on any newspaper would have been fired. It tells nothing.

Nowhere on the form is there any category for deducting legally non-taxable interest, but there is a place for you to pay it. Indeed the form requires you to submit it in your income. Unquestionably, the taxpayer is giving the government interest it is not legally entitled to collect, and he never knows the difference.

So then while the war debt is a somewhat staggering new influence in the economy, the carrying of it is not as heavy as publicly proclaimed. Cutting it down is necessary in the interests of all people whose economy is irretrievably wrapped up in it through their bonds and bank deposits. But the Truman balanced budget only calls for retirement of $200 million or so of the $260 billions, a modest amount. Ordinarily the situation would seem to call for a debt retirement program to run through the years. A certain definite amount could be set aside annually for retirement and this figure could be accumulated from budget pruning and elimination of waste. A debt retirement program adopted at this time to set aside a certain amount in each future year would put government emphasis on saving and financial efficiency.

SAN DIEGO TAKES RED TAPE OFF ARMY CAMP AND GIVES LOW-COST HOUSING TO VETS

OUT OF THIS RUBBLE at Camp Callan, 1,500 veterans are getting buildings and fixtures.

HOSPITAL WARDs are cut into three units and then partitioned into two-bedroom homes.

By HAROLD KEEN
Central Press Correspondent

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Fifteen hundred veterans' families today have new homes of their own because the city of San Diego literally badgered the United States Army into selling it a camp three miles long, one-half mile wide, and containing 520 buildings.

Not only have homes risen from the "ruins" of Camp Callan, but the city, by driving an astonishingly hard bargain, has emerged with a handsome profit.

Surveying the virtually flattened area—which appears so much like an atomic bomb target that it is known as "Little Hiroshima"—Mayor Harley E. Knox recalls with grim satisfaction how seemingly red tape was unraveled by "what the government probably thought was out, detestable persistence."

Veterans who had tumbled over booby-trap technicalities in war surplus sales and had found their priorities to be mere hunting licenses for materials have been amazed at the ease with which they could buy entire structures, or the salvaged lumber, when doing business with the city.

Last November, Camp Callan, commissioned early in 1941 as an anti-aircraft replacement training center, was declared surplus. For almost five years the Army had paid one dollar per annum to the city for its lease to the vast acreage—once a beanfield—on the picturesque Torrey Pines cliffs overlooking the Pacific. Now the city, lumber-starved, saw in the abandoned buildings the answer to many a veteran's dream.

For weeks Mayor Knox and his aides pleaded, argued, begged and talked down to crack the Washington bottleneck. The city was willing to pay $200,000 for all the structures, and to waive a lease requirement that the Army restore the grounds to their pre-war aspect. Last February the transaction almost was consummated. But there was a joker. The government was to get all net proceeds from sale of the materials, all dismantling and sales were to be supervised by the Civilian Production Administration, and all materials had to be sold to veterans for homes of moderate cost.

"Nothing doing," said Knox. "We don't need another federal agency looking over our shoulders. And besides, how can ALL materials go into veterans' homes?" He pointed to three large steam boilers in the power plant. And a huge traveling crane in the machine shop. And hundreds of other items that could be used only in industries.

The city demanded full jurisdiction over, and profits from "Operation Callan." A month later he Army yielded, and the chain reaction was immediate and phenomenal.

One Barracks—Three Homes Messhalls and hospital wards were chopped into two and three bedroom homes costing from $1,175 to $1,500 each. The average barracks building, which had to be dismantled on the spot, sold for $500, and yielded 32,000 board feet of lumber, enough for three homes. At the OPA ceiling price of $40 per thousand board feet, this amounted to between 12 and 13 hundred dollars worth of lumber, the "profit" to the veteran being, of course, absorbed in wrecking and handling costs.

The city found buyers for buildings and materials of no use to veterans for homes. The main boiler plant was sold to a citrus packing house. Three chapels were purchased by churches. An exhibitor bought the outdoor theater.

More Than 3,000 New Dog Licenses Issued By Auditor's Office

OFFICE RUSHED AS DOG OWNERS BEAT DEADLINE

Final Report On License Sale Unknown Until Mail Applications Filled

Sales of new 1947 dog licenses in Pickaway county are larger than in 1946 it was disclosed Tuesday by County Auditor Forrest Short.

Monday was the deadline for buying the new dog tags and starting Tuesday a penalty of $1, as decreed by state law, must be added to the license price.

Auditor Short said a total of 2,908 tags had been issued when his office closed Monday afternoon following the usual last-minute rush. At least 100 letters containing remittances for the tags but which had not yet been opened and tabulated Tuesday morning boosted the total sale to at least 3,008.

It was explained that remittance letters carrying a postmark before midnight Monday would permit the applicants to avoid payment of the $1 penalty.

Auditor Short, as a convenience to dog owners, permitted applications for dog licenses to be made by mail.

Under state law every dog over the age of three months is required to be licensed. The license cost—without the $1 penalty—is $1 for male, $3 for female, and $1 for spayed female.

SPEAKER TELLS HEALTH NEEDS

Problems Facing State Are Outlined By P. C. Bechtol For Kiwanians

Pearl C. Bechtol, connected with the health and physical education division of the state department of education, outlined some of the health problems facing Ohio at the Kiwanis meeting Monday evening in Hanley's.

The speaker stated that crowds at athletic contests gave evidence that Ohioans are interested in sports for children. He also pointed to the increase in the number of football and baseball teams and the general approval last year of bond issues, funds from which will be used to expand physical education programs.

Advantages of sports were listed as the learning of fair play, team work, loyalty, cooperation, tolerance and justice. He listed among weaknesses of the program the lack of sportsmanship by adults who wanted their team to win; no carryover value, that is, sports learned in school help little after students are graduated; lack of democracy, gyms and football fields are usually restricted to the select group on the school's team; lack of leaders to give all schools a well-rounded program; lack of time in schools; lack of vision by some school boards, who cannot see the value of physical training for Ohio youth.

Mr. Bechtol listed as the chief problems facing Ohioans now; mental and social hygiene problems, safety education, health education. He pointed out that the divorce rate is increasing, juvenile delinquency is up; traffic deaths are too high. He declared that with cooperation of service clubs, schools, parents and the general public with state officials these situations could be improved.

The speaker was introduced by Harold Defenbaugh, program chairman.

Guests at the meeting were the Rev. James A. Herbst, Ray Goetting and Dan McClain.

general secretary of the American Dental association said that "all the dentists in the United States are only enough to care for one-half of the new cavities without filling the old ones."

Herbert Recommends 'Flexible' Taxation

Public Vote On Bonus For Servicemen Suggested In Assembly Talk

BY HAROLD LISK
INS Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—Adequate school and municipal financial aid, a public vote on a soldier bonus, and a flexible taxation system were recommended to the 97th Ohio general assembly by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today.

The newly-inaugurated Republican chief executive made his first appearance before the legislature last night. He deferred specific recommendations on a taxation program, pending receipt of a study-report on the present system.

However, the GOP governor did recommend immediate re-enactment of the state cigarette tax, the liquid fuel tax and the sixty-five hundredths per cent public utilities tax. All would expire this Spring unless re-enacted.

Higher Salaries Asked

Other chief points in Herbert's 17-point program called for increased state salaries in both appointive and elective offices; the creation of a single department of conservation with cabinet status; prompt legislative action to protect the public interest in riparian areas; and a study of the liquor monopoly system to determine "what evils are inherent in the system and what action should be taken to eliminate them."

In his section on taxation, the governor pointed out that the last general assembly provided in special session for a study of the taxation system by the state tax commissioner.

Awaits Tax Report

"I am advised," he declared, "that this report will be forthcoming within two weeks. In fairness to all I consider it my duty to study that report before making any specific recommendations on these interrelated subjects."

However, he did specify that there should be a "reduction or revision of our tax structure so that we may avoid the accumulation of further excessive surpluses unless and until justifiable reasons have been established."

On the soldier bonus question, he recommended that "the people of Ohio be afforded the opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment providing a bonus for Ohio's World War II veterans."

He warned, though, that "calm and careful study should be given to determine ways and means of financing such a proposal with the view of submitting it at the next general election."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

(Exclusive) Moscow will not protest the results of the Polish election. I have that from my Droschky driver.

It may take a few days to finish counting the ballots but fortunately the verdict was arrived at before the trial.

The ballot was as secret as a creditor's letter in a cellophane envelope.

Under the new democracy in Poland any citizen could vote regardless of party affiliation provided he belonged to the right party.

I hear the White House cabled Warsaw, "we protest the election in Poland." Warsaw cabled back, "we protest the election in Georgia."

That put both sides in a quandary. A quandary is a Potsdam declaration signed in invisible ink.

Sweden is having trouble, too. Thousands of citizens protesting rationing have thrown away their liquor rationing books. What makes it strange is that they were cold sober.

Marshall Takes Oath As Secretary; Denies Any Political Ambition

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Gen. George C. Marshall was sworn in at the White House today as secretary of state after declaring that he never can be drafted for the presidency or other political office. Marshall said he was becoming secretary of state with the understanding that the post is not political.

President Truman declared, as the high office was entrusted to the wartime chief of staff, that America's foreign relations course "is in safe hands."

STRIKE CURBS ARE SUGGESTED

Mayors Hear Demands For Laws To Prevent More U. S. Labor Strife

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The nation's leading mayors today heard three demands for legislation to outlaw utility strikes and prevent further labor strife in the United States.

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp., told the U. S. conference of mayors that legislation should be enacted to prevent annual repetition of "conditions we now face."

Rep. Case (R) S. D., author of the labor-curbing Case bill, declared that restrictions must be placed on unions through the modification of the Wagner labor relations act which he said was "impossible" to repeal.

Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, whose city was crippled last year by a power strike, declared that there should be some restriction on strikes on public utilities.

Lawrence warned, however, against taking away labor's "right to strike" and said unions should be "compensated" in some way for any privileges they lose.

In his address, Case declared that "everyone will suffer" from attempts to make up strike losses through wage increases instead of through higher production.

The congressman described the new Case bill as "better balanced" than the measure he introduced at the last session of congress.

In an unexpected speech before the conference, former Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York warned against "hasty" labor legislation. He expressed hope that no changes would be made in the Norris-La Guardia act which outlaws injunctions in labor disputes.

He declared: "That is a safeguard and as long as human nature is what it is we need that safeguard."

The ex-mayor said he favored establishment of machinery to set (Continued on Page Two)

REDS PROMISE NEWS FREEDOM AT CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, ambassador to Moscow, today reported new assurance from the Soviet foreign office that full freedom will be given correspondents covering the March foreign ministers meeting.

Smith in a message to the state department said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vyshinsky also informed him that there would be "no difficulty" about arrival of newsmen via United States air transport.

The ambassador added that quarters are being made available in the new Moscow hotel for both officials and correspondents.

Vyshinsky told the ambassador that the extent of broadcasting facilities which can be used has not been determined, but the U. S. envoy reported his belief that a "limited amount" of radio equipment would be ready for use.

GENERAL MOTORS PRICE INCREASE IS REPORTED

DETROIT, Jan. 21—The Detroit Times said today that the General Motors Corp. has increased prices on 1947 models from $17 to $193.

The new prices, the Times said, already have been sent to branches. Largest increases are on the station wagon models. The $17 boost was listed for the Pontiac sedan-coupe.

TALMADGE SAYS HE WILL QUIT IF LAWS PASS

Georgia 'Governor' Offers To Resign If Thompson Will Do Same

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 21—Herman Talmadge offered today to resign and submit to an election after the Georgia general assembly has enacted the state Democratic party platform.

He said that he would turn in his resignation provided that his rival for the governorship, Melvin Ernest Thompson, would do the same.

Talmadge made the resignation offer before a joint session of the general assembly where he had been invited to outline the policies of his administration.

Talmadge cited the law that gubernatorial authority would devolve upon the speaker of the house, Fred Hand, of Pelham, Ga., in event that he and Thompson resign.

Outlining a nine-point legislative program, adopted as the Democratic platform at the state convention, Talmadge emphasized that he feels it is his duty to see that the proposals be enacted before he quits office.

He appeared particularly anxious that the projected restoration of the traditional "white" party primary be carried out before he faces an election. He declared:

"I therefore propose as follows: 'That the legislature complete its duties in accordance with the Democratic party platform. After completion of this duty, if the lieutenant governor will resign, your governor will resign.'

"The speaker of the house of representatives will assume executive authority. I will meet any candidate for the governorship of Georgia in a Democratic white primary to let the white people of Georgia determine who is their choice for governor."

Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson took steps today to remove state highway patrolmen from Georgia's capitol and challenged assembly-elected Gov. Talmadge to face the people of the state with him in a gubernatorial election.

At a news conference in his office in the senate chamber, Thompson revealed he had written a letter to W. E. Spence, director of the department of public safety under the Ellis Arnall administration, directing him to "immediately resume" active control of the department.

Thompson said he further directed Spence to: "Immediately proceed to remove from the state capitol those em- (Continued on Page Two)

U. S. PLANE ON CHINESE FLIGHT SAID MISSING

SHANGHAI, Jan. 21—A United States Army plane carrying thirteen passengers and a crew of five was reported missing today on a flight from Shanghai to Kweilin.

The plane was last reported over Hangchow bay, 100 miles south of Shanghai, after taking off from Shanghai at 3:30 a. m. Saturday.

The passengers included a graves registration unit of seven members assigned to search for missing American bodies in the Kweilin area. The other six passengers were Chinese enlisted men of the U. S. Army.

Search planes returned to Shanghai this afternoon after failing to sight the missing craft.

An all-out search will be launched tomorrow with B-17 and B-29 planes from Okinawa joining planes from Shanghai.

Names of the missing passengers and crewmen were not made public but next of kin have been notified.

Brazil Reported Near Open Break With Russia

By International News Service
Activities of the Communist party in widely-separated parts of the globe highlighted developments in the political field today.

In Brazil, for instance, the Communist party made sweeping gains in tabulation of results of state and city elections. In the states of Pernambuco and Sao Paulo, the left-wingers were well in front, and showing unexpected strength in other areas.

These gains by the Brazilian Communists came amid unconfirmed rumors that the Rio de Janeiro government was considering an imminent closing order against the party. They also coincided with similarly unconfirmed reports that Brazil's leaders were thinking of breaking openly with Russia over incidents involving Rio's diplomats in the Soviet Union.

A note from the Brazilian foreign ministry, meantime, gave added impetus to these rumors. The note flatly rejected Soviet charges that the second secretary of Brazil's embassy in Moscow had created a drunken disorder last month, resulting in his being beaten and expelled from Russia.

At the same time, the Brazilian foreign office criticized the Russians for the quarters in which they make the Brazilian ambassador live. Pimental Brando, the ambassador, incidentally has been given permission to leave Russia, ostensibly for reasons of health.

Lowland Farmers Ask Share Of Government Funds At Meeting Here

Plea of Pickaway county farmers for the building of dikes to prevent Scioto river flood waters from submerging lowlands was unacted upon, because of lack of available funds, at an all-day meeting of the AAA, Monday, at the Betz Restaurant.

Other proposed projects aimed to benefit the county's farmers were discussed but no action was taken for the same reason. Members of the Township Trustees' and Clerks' Association met with the AAA, and present also were a number of farmers.

Among those attending were John Boggs, AAA county chairman; Dewey Downs, AAA committee member; John Musser, district soil conservationist; and County Agricultural Agent Larry A. Best. Lawrence Liston, president of the Township Trustees' and Clerks' Association, was out of the city and unable to be present.

VOLSTEAD, 87, DIES; FATHER OF PROHIBITION

GRANITE FALLS, Minn., Jan. 21—Funeral arrangements were being completed today for Andrew Volstead, author of the prohibition act and former Minnesota congressman, who died last night at his home in Granite Falls. He was 87.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon. Known as the father of prohibition, Volstead declared that when his act was still young that it was effective. The eighteenth amendment, or Volstead act, was passed in 1919.

But shortly before the law was repealed in 1933, Volstead admitted that "perfect prohibition is as impossible as perfect prevention of any crime."

Volstead was defeated in 1922 by the Rev. O. U. Kvale, who proclaimed himself "drier than Volstead."

HERRIOT NAMED ASSEMBLY HEAD

Four Major French Parties Agree On Aged Leader; Troubles Continue

PARIS, Jan. 21—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, the grand old man of the radical Socialist party, was elected president of the French national assembly today.

Herriot, running with the support of the four major parties, received 429 of the 554 votes cast.

He succeeds socialist Vincent Auriol who was named president of the fourth French republic.

Herriot's success was assured when the Communists voted to give him their support.

The chances of the veteran radical Socialist had been enhanced a short time earlier when the Socialists decided to ballot for him.

Herriot was assured support of three of the four major political groups, when the Popular Republicans (MRP) announced its members would be left free to vote as they choose.

The Socialist decision to support him was likely to create new difficulties between that party and the Communists, inasmuch as the latter group expected this support for Jacques Duclos as they backed the Socialists Vincent Auriol and Paul Ramadier in the races for president and premier, respectively.

Some Communist quarters regarded the Socialist move as a trick, which had been completely unanticipated.

Prior to this sudden turn of events, top communists were reported ready to insist that Duclos was entitled to the post, which is equivalent to the speaker of the American house of representatives.

Last night Duclos made a speech which made political circles set up and take notice, anticipating an increased demand on the part of the Communists for greater representation in the new cabinet.

Duclos, however, hastened to explain that his remarks had been misconstrued. He formally notified news correspondents that he had not demanded the interior and foreign affairs ministries as well as the national defense portfolio for the Communists.

RUSSIAN DROUGHT SAID TO BE WORST ON RECORD

MOSCOW, Jan. 21—The Soviet government revealed today that last Fall's drought embraced a larger area than the one of 1921 which caused the deaths of a million and a half people through starvation.

The report, the first comprehensive statement on the drought, said it was unprecedented in 50 years, but that hardship was kept at a minimum by emergency means for food economy and distribution.

GOVERNMENT IS FACED WITH BIG DEBT TO FIRMS

Contractors Would Expect To Get Back Amounts Up To $500,000,000

JUDGE IS DEFENDED

Attorney Acting For Union Scores Criticism Of Judge Picard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall told congress today that portal-to-portal claims which the war department would have to pay might total 400 to 500 million dollars.

Royall, testifying before a senate judiciary subcommittee, said that "by and large" the government would have to reimburse most portal pay payments made by the wartime cost-plus-fixed fee contractors.

At the same time a Detroit lawyer defended the fairness of Judge Frank A. Picard, accused in the senate hearing of a pro-labor attitude in the Mt. Clemens (Mich.) portal-to-portal pay case.

Ernest Goodman, attorney for the Mt. Clemens pottery workers whose right to portal pay was upheld by Judge Picard, telegraphed the subcommittee that criticism of the jurist was "a brazen and unwarranted attack."

Goodman declared his impression was that "Judge Picard's numerous observations during the trial were in most cases favorable to the Chrysler corporation."

Royall said that so far approximately 300 million dollars in back portal claims have been "asserted" by unions in court suits but he added:

"They probably will exceed 300 million dollars and may reach 400 or 500 millions in claims against the war department."

In a second category of Army contracts—lump sum agreements covered by the renegotiation law—the department believes that portal claims could not literally be held against the government except for 1944 and part of 1945.

But Royall said that despite the absence of "legal liability" he felt the government might have a "moral" obligation to reimburse contractors who had "scaled down" their contracts with the Army on the basis of reduced costs.

ANOTHER 'RED' IS SOUGHT AS 'DAHLIA' KILLER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21—The search for the slayer of Elizabeth Short, the "Black Dahlia," moved back to San Diego today as police sought a second "Red," possibly a Marine, in connection with her sadistic murder.

Three witnesses reported seeing the "Dahlia" with the new suspect the day before her mutilated body was found in a vacant lot in Los Angeles.

The trio declared they saw the girl in a cafe six miles north of downtown San Diego.

They insisted the "Red" they observed with the girl believed to have been the Dahlia was not Robert (Red) Manley.

Manley was released from custody on a suspicion of murder charge. He had freely admitted two San Diego trysts with the movie-struck Dahlia, but he established an airtight alibi covering the period when she was slain.

U. S. REFUSES TO TURN MAN OVER TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The United States today rejected a Russian demand for the return of Kyrill Alekseev, former attaché at the Soviet embassy in Mexico City and now "in hiding" in New York. The Moscow demand was based on the contention that Alekseev, who announced his refusal to return to Russia after denouncing the Soviet regime, had embezzled embassy funds in Mexico City.

The state department pointed out that Russia called for extradition of the erstwhile diplomat and noted that no extradition treaty exists between the United States and the Soviet Union.

GOVERNOR ASKS NEW FUNDS FOR CITIES, SCHOOLS

bonus proposals have been introduced in the senate. Cost of such a bonus has been estimated at between $25,000,000 and a half-billion dollars.

For hard-pressed school teachers and school districts, the new governor suggested "that adequate funds be made available to aid and assist the boards of education in meeting their present critical problems."

"The shortage of trained teachers and capable non-teaching personnel," he declared, "is due, primarily, to inadequate salaries and wages."

He also suggested that additional appropriations are needed in the field of higher education through support of state universities.

Local Aid Needed

"Local government financing," he asserted, "should be put on a more permanent basis in order that we might avoid the constant recurrence of demands by local taxing units for state aid."

"It has been suggested that the state abandon some fields of taxation in order to enable local governments to enter them. Another proposal is that the state definitely earmark certain taxes so that they may be returned to the counties on a tax source basis for distribution therein by the respective county budget commissions."

Herbert declared that a readjustment is possible and that "a combination of these methods might result."

Would Fight TB

Other points taken up by the governor included:

Recommendation of the adoption of a vigorous constructive program to fight tuberculosis.

The expansion and further improvement of rural and farm-to-market roads and the improvement of arterial highways to and through cities and villages.

The consideration of the effectiveness of federal laws and those of other states which provide cooling-off periods, mediation and arbitration in labor disputes.

The emergency appropriation of funds for development of the Mt. Vernon state hospital and the purchase and remodeling of the Cambridge state hospital.

Consideration of adequate facilities for the Ohio State fair.

The enactment of laws applying to the insurance business, particularly in respect to rate-making, "so that the public will be afforded the same measure of protection as is provided by the federal anti-trust laws."

Delinquency Study Urged

The creation of a legislative commission to study causes and possible steps which the state might take toward the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The consideration of enabling legislation to allow municipal governments to eliminate blighted areas and provide off-the-street parking facilities.

Provision for adequate facilities for state departments, "particularly in the city of Columbus where state-owned buildings are filled and overflowing."

Herbert concluded his message on the same note he sounded when inaugurated a week ago. He declared:

"May I say, again that the time has arrived for the practice of rigid and efficient economy in the operation of government. It is time to give the taxpayer a break."

18-YEAR-OLD WIFE ASKS DIVORCE IN LOCAL COURT

Mrs. Doris Speakman, 18-year-old bride of one year and the mother of an infant son, filed suit for divorce in Pickaway county common pleas court, Tuesday, accusing Wayne Speakman of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

Declaring they were married in January, 1946 she alleges that her husband failed to adequately provide her with necessities of life and that he "struck and beat" her. Mrs. Speakman also asks for alimony and the custody of the child, Anthony. Being a minor, Mrs. Speakman's suit was filed for her by her brother, Irvin E. Funk, as her next friend.

Speakman pleaded guilty, Sunday, before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland to a charge of assault filed by his wife. He was fined $10 and costs and was committed to the county jail. However, Monday Speakman paid the fine and costs and was released.

Judge William D. Radcliff granted a temporary injunction restraining Speakman from molesting Mrs. Speakman during the pendency of the divorce action.

In another divorce suit, filed Tuesday, Mrs. Sarah Ann Bowen, Ashville, charges Norman Bowen, Pontiac, Mich., with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Her petition, which contains no details of the accusation, says they were married Jan. 17, 1936 at Monroe, Mich., and that they are childless. Mrs. Bowen asks to be restored to her maiden name, Sarah Ann Franks.

JURY CALLS IN OFFICIALS OF THREE CITIES

STUEBENVILLE, O., Jan. 21—Officials of three Jefferson county cities appeared today to testify before the county grand jury investigating crime and vice in the Steubenville area.

The mayors, safety directors and police chiefs of Steubenville, Mingo Junction and Toronto were subpoenaed to appear. In addition, Peter Aperfine, part-owner of slot machines, appeared in response to a subpoena.

The grand jury investigation followed a drive by members of the Steubenville Ministerial association, to rid the area of vice and gambling which they charged were being carried on openly. They sought unsuccessfully for permission to arm themselves to quell crime.

Two Jefferson county common pleas judges charged the jury to investigate not only vice and crime but also to inquire into any possible illegal relationships between officials and the underworld.

Socialist bloc, favored by the government, won a hands-down victory in Sunday's parliamentary election, gaining 327 of the 372 seats contested. Opposition groups insist the balloting was not free.

ployes of the public safety department who in uniform the past week have been spending their time in guarding the office of an illegal office holder."

At his news conference a few minutes later, Talmadge, informed of Thompson's statement, asserted:

"Mr. Thompson has no authority to give orders as governor of Georgia."

After revealing his letter to Spence, Thompson declared:

"I here and now challenge Herman Talmadge, who received only 675 write-in votes in the last election, and Roy Harris, who up to now has dominated Herman's every move and who is trying to become dictator of Georgia, to contest with me before the voters of the state for the governorship."

Amplifying his statement, Thompson said that he not only considers himself acting governor, but he was a candidate for governor "at the earliest time that an election by the people can be held under the constitution."

Indicating that he was gaining support from other department heads, Thompson said that W. N. Pate, supervisor of purchasing, had informed him he recognized Thompson as acting governor instead of Talmadge. Pate's department supervises all purchases by the state government.

Thompson also revealed the appointment of John H. Goddard, of Griffin, as an assistant attorney general. He added that he was not considering any other appointments at the present time.

COLUMBUS MEN PAY FINES IN 'BOTTLE' CASE

While physicians Tuesday sought to save the sight of one of Thomas George's eyes, George Nichols, 23, and Richard Stone, 23, both of Columbus, who allegedly hurled a beer bottle through a window and injured George, were free after each paid a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

George, 53-year-old South Bloomfield barber, was a patron in the Ed Price tavern at South Bloomfield late Saturday night, according to Sheriff's Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern L. Pontious, when the bottle crashed through the front window of the tavern. The two Columbus men were subsequently jailed.

The deputies said their investigation showed that Donald Brannon, son-in-law of the proprietor, had ejected Nichols and Stone from the establishment after they had allegedly become troublesome.

Brannon filed affidavits against the pair, charging intoxication, disorderly conduct, and malicious destruction of property. A hearing was held late Monday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland in Circleville. It was stated that the malicious destruction of property charges would not be pressed for the time being.

Marshall Takes Oath As Secretary; Denies Any Political Ambition

it gave him a great deal of pleasure to present the new secretary with his certificate of office.

'In Safe Hands'

The President expressed regret that illness had forced Byrnes' resignation. He added:

"I feel the duties of the secretary of state are in safe hands. The President asked Marshall to say a few words.

Marshall then said quietly: "Thank you, Mr. President. I appreciate sincerely this honor and your confidence."

Top Leaders Present

Top national leaders were assembled in the president's office for the ceremony.

Besides the President and Byrnes they included other members of the cabinet, congressional leaders of both parties, among them Senate President Vandenberg (R) Mich. and Sen. Connally (D) Tex., who aided Byrnes throughout the "big four" peace conference.

White House Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen that Mr. Truman had not been aware that Marshall was going to make a statement on his determination to avoid any connection with politics.

Ross said the President had not discussed political matters with Marshall.

The new cabinet member, first presidential soldier to guide the nation's foreign relations, declared on his arrival in Washington:

"I want to be specific and emphatic against any mention of my name in political matters."

Rumors Spiked

His statement apparently was inspired by rumors that in being placed in the state department

post Marshall was being groomed for the possibility of a candidate for presidency or vice presidency in the next election.

Arriving in Washington at 7:30 a. m. (E.S.), Marshall, accompanied by his wife, remained aboard the train until after 9 o'clock.

After being questioned about his immediate plans, Marshall finally brought the talk to a close by saying:

"I think this is as good a time as any to terminate speculation on my political attitude.

"In assuming the office of secretary of state at least it is my understanding that the office is non-political.

"I will never become involved in political matters.

"I therefore cannot be considered as a candidate for any political office."

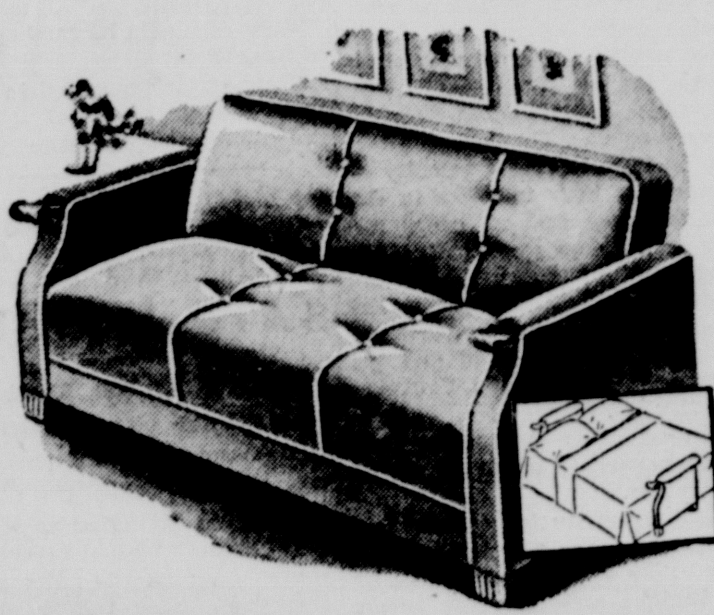

Then referring to the talk of a "draft" for political office, Marshall emphasized "I could never be drafted for any political office."

the dispute, but only after "thoughtful consideration" of the labor problem.

Wilson called for the following changes in the nation's labor laws:

(1) Clarification of the legal and judicial procedures through which the government's power to protect "the interests of its citizens" must be "clearly defined and understood."

(2) Modification of labor laws "so that they will no longer encourage industrial strife."

(3) Elimination of the closed shop, which he said "violates the basic rights of individuals."

(4) Elimination of industry-wide bargaining, which he branded as a "monopolistic power" of labor unions.

(5) Clarification and establishment of sympathy strikes, and all forms of boycott.

(6) Clarification and establishment of "limits" on collective bargaining.

(7) Elimination of "the privilege of collective bargaining" held by government and municipal employees.

FARM HOME IS DESTROYED BY MORNING FIRE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beavers and family were homeless Tuesday following a fire which destroyed the five-room house on Route 56, three miles east of Circleville Tuesday morning.

Only a part of the household goods were saved. Circleville firemen reported. Beavers said the fire started from a stove in an out-house. Firemen said the house was destroyed.

Firemen reported the fire was out of control when they arrived. They said Mrs. Beavers only recently had returned to her home from the hospital.

The house is located on a farm owned by Elizabeth Hitler.

Firemen were called at noon Tuesday to 215 West Mound street, where an overheated furnace had caused alarm.

Herbert Requests More Money for Education

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Highlights of Governor Herbert's 17-point program presented to the legislature last night, included:

Taxation

"In 1945 there was accumulated a surplus of more than 20 million dollars in the general revenue fund. In 1946, the additional surplus amounted to almost 70 million dollars of which 40 millions was sales tax surplus. There is now credited to the postwar reserve fund 90 million dollars which has not been otherwise appropriated."

"I do not believe in the principle of maintaining taxes for the sole purpose of creating a huge surplus."

"The amounts necessary to meet our obligations in the field of education, both in our public schools and in the state-supported universities, yet remain to be determined. Also, there are definitely increased operation costs in the welfare department. Local governments are demanding increased assistance from the state."

"Various proposals to solve the problem of assistance to local governments are being made. It has been suggested that the state abandon some fields of taxation in order to enable local governments to enter them. Another proposal is that the state definitely earmark certain taxes so that they may be returned to the counties on a tax source basis. A readjustment of presently shared revenues is possible as is also the assumption by the state of some present local obligation. A combination of these methods might result."

"My general objectives remain unchanged. They are:

"1.—Adequate and economical administration of the various departments of government and full discharge of the state's obligations."

"2.—To assist in a mutually beneficial solution of local government finance."

"3.—Reduction or revision of our tax structure so that we may avoid the accumulation of further excessive surpluses unless and until justifiable reasons have been established. The state veterans' bonus and the method of financing proposed should be considered in this regard."

Veterans

"The people of Ohio should be afforded the opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment providing a bonus for Ohio's World War II veterans. Calm and careful study should be given to determine ways and means of financing such a proposal with the view of submitting it at the next general election."

Education

"The critical shortage of trained teachers and capable non-teaching personnel is due, primarily, to inadequate salaries and wages. I recommend that adequate funds be made available to aid and assist the boards of education in meeting their present critical problems."

"Additional appropriations also are clearly indicated if we are to meet our full responsibility in the field of higher education."

Municipal Governments

"I recommend the consideration of enabling legislation designed to facilitate the elimination of blighted areas in our larger cities and to enable our cities to provide off-the-street parking facilities."

Liquor Control

"I recommend that a study of our state monopoly system as well as those of other states be made by the general assembly to determine what evils are inherent in the system and what action should be taken to eliminate them."

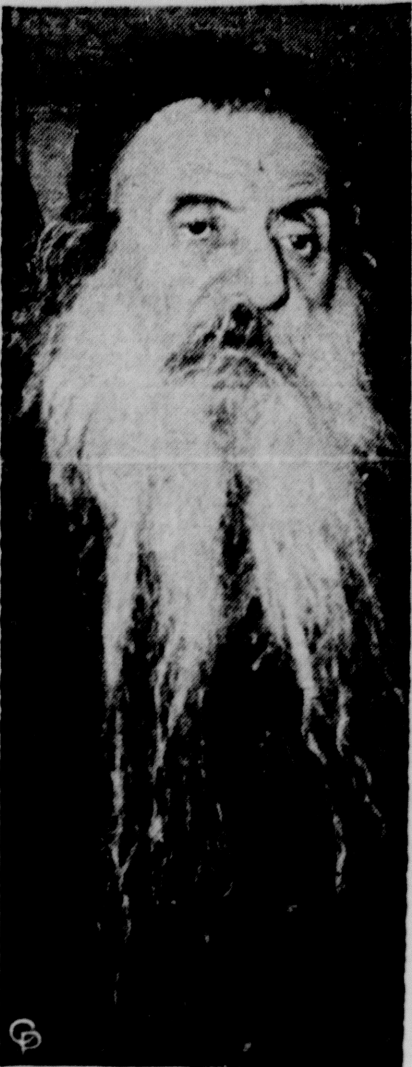

Highways

"I recommend the immediate expansion and further improvement of rural and farm-to-market roads, the improvement of arterial highways to and through cities and villages, and the modernizing of obsolete sections of trunk-line highways."

"I favor the use exclusively for highway purposes of all revenues received from taxes imposed upon the use of motor vehicles on the public highways and the fuel used in such vehicles."

"In 1944, congress enacted into law an expanded post-war highway program. Ohio is to receive approximately 20 million dollars a year for 1946, 1947 and 1948 by matching a similar amount. I recommend the appropriation of the necessary amounts to enable Ohio fully to participate in the federal postwar highway program."

As the ship docked, he said happily: "At last we are here." (International)

Insurance

"I recommend that the general assembly enact laws applying to the insurance business, particularly in respect to rate-making, affording the public the same measure of protection as is provided by the federal anti-trust laws."

Conservation and Natural Resources

"I recommend the creation of a single department of conservation with cabinet status. All phases of conservation of natural resources should be united and administered by one department."

"It is obvious to anyone who has seen the waste lands in our state that reclamation and conservation of strip-mined properties are essential. It is my recommendation that the report of your strip mining study commission be considered in connection with the conservation program and that prompt appropriate legislative action be taken to protect the public interest."

State Salaries

"We cannot expect indefinitely to attract qualified men and women into the administration of the state's multi-million dollar business at salaries established in some instances as far back as 40 years ago."

"I recommend that the salary increase now in effect be continued and that those appointive state officials whose salaries are filed by statute receive increases commensurate with the responsibility and dignity of their respective offices."

"Although I make no recommendation regarding salaries for elective officials, may I suggest that the foregoing observations are likewise fully applicable to them."

Agriculture

"I recommend an extension of the livestock and plant disease control programs to increase production of farm products. The present Ohio state fair facilities are inadequate and consideration should be given to provide suitable accommodations."

Civil Service

"I have requested the civil service commission to begin its examinations for the department of liquor control where the percentage of provisional employees is presently at an all-time high. I recommend that you provide sufficient funds for the conduct of examinations in other departments."

Health

"Ohio is now last among the 48 states in expenditures to fight tuberculosis. By adopting a vigorous constructive program, we can minimize, in great measure, the curse of tuberculosis in Ohio."

"I recommend your consideration of proposals which include:

"1. Construction of 300 bed hospital in connection with the Ohio State University medical center which will provide diagnosis and surgical treatment for the entire state."

"2. Establishment of four 200-bed hospitals on suitable selected sites to provide adequate facilities in areas where there are none at present."

"3. The institution of a program of state financial assistance to counties maintaining such facilities."

Labor

"Congress is presently considering legislation designed to expedite the orderly settlement of labor-management disputes. Several states have enacted legislation to provide cooling-off periods, mediation and arbitration. I recommend that the general assembly consider the effectiveness of such laws and determine the advisability of similar legislation for the state of Ohio."

Public Welfare

"I ask that the general assembly study the advisability of proceeding toward the purchase and remodeling of the Cambridge state hospital property."

"I shall soon submit additional requests for emergency appropriations for several other welfare institutions."

Public Works

"Consideration should be given to provide adequate facilities for our state departments, particularly in the city of Columbus where our state-owned buildings are filled and overflowing. I recommend that the general assembly give consideration to the creation of a commission to study this problem."

'NUMBER' KILLER IS INDICTED BY FRANKLIN JURY

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Earl Wright, 42, who allegedly murdered his 75-year-old mother Jan. 10 because a "number" told him "her time was up," was under first degree murder indictment today.

A Franklin county grand jury returned the indictment yesterday after hearing how the self-styled minister confessed to police that he beat his mother to death with his fists and an iron footstool when she told him to turn down a radio.

Wright said a number, 709, he had chalked on the side of a stove led him to kill her.

The grand jury also indicted Jefferson M. Shavers, 25, Columbus, for first degree murder in the Dec. 4 shooting of his brother-in-law, George Sington, 21.

Second degree manslaughter indictments were returned against Charles J. McCarthy, Dayton, and Robert E. Shell, Chicago, in connection with traffic accident fatalities.

LARAIN, LEO REPORTED ON WAY TO WEDDING

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Movie Actress Laraine Day and Leo (The Lip) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, were winging their way to Juarez, Mexico, today, supposedly to be married.

They left last night on an American airlines plane.

The film player was divorced yesterday from Ray Hendricks, an airport manager, and, according to Hollywood reports, she intends to divorce him again—getting a Mexican decree—before she marries the loquacious headman of "Dem Bums."

Miss Day, confronted shortly before she left with a report that marriage was on the program, at first denied it and then replied: "You already know. What more can I say? Yes, it's true."

The Laraine Day-Durocher romance has been in the air for weeks, with reports it would lead to the altar followed by reports it wouldn't. At one time Hendricks threatened to file a cross-complaint to his wife's petition for a divorce, naming "Lippy."

However, in yesterday's divorce proceedings there wasn't the slightest mention of the Dodge manager.

SEED SITUATION REPORTED BEST IN FOUR YEARS

The 1946 production of field seeds has been termed the best in four years by seed specialists of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus. Only one shortage loomed on the seed horizon, according to their report, and that was medium red clover which will not meet the demand despite the fact that 1946 production was 21% greater than that of 1945.

Prices on some seeds have risen somewhat above those allowed under ceiling prices, the specialists report, which has affected the general supply. Indications point to a carryover this year, a condition which was not strong during the war years.

Red clover production, the specialists pointed out, was higher in 1946 due to the government's subsidy program which allowed farmers $3.50 per acre for harvesting and provided them with another nine cents per pound if they sold their seed to dealers before Dec. 31, 1946. However there was no carryover from 1945 and non-seed-producing areas will find seed short.

Alfalfa seed showed the greatest increase in 1946 with a 41% gain over the previous year. Average of the six principal legume and grass seeds was 17 per cent larger than in 1945 and 27 per cent above the 1935-44 average.

OHIO'S GROUP OF UNDEFEATED TEAMS SMALLER

More High School Fives In First Losses; Chillicothe Still Among Leaders

BY JOHN BARRINGTON
INS Sports Writer

Only a baker's dozen or so high school quintets pursued their merry way down the rainbow trail today toward the goal of an undefeated season.

Actually, victims in the erstwhile undefeated ranks were fewer than usual last week—chiefly because the starting field was smaller.

Greater Cincinnati saw two winning streaks shattered and two others continued. Canton McKinley was left with the only perfect mark in that northern city as Lehman fell by the wayside after winning ten straight.

Newark St. Francis was upset by Zanesville St. Thomas, 43 to 41, and thereby had a 15-game skein fractured. The next night, St. Francis bounced back to whip Ohio Deaf, 37 to 26. Delphos St. John registered Elida's first loss in 13 games, 40 to 36.

Cincinnati Elder also staged a comeback, drubbing Roger Bacon, 62 to 25, after losing to Indianapolis Cathedral. Cincinnati Walnut Hills toyed with Hughes, 35 to 20, but was upset by twice-beaten Hamilton, 39 to 35.

Lockland Wayne and North College Hill both continued to win. Wayne trounced Lincoln Grant, 57 to 30, while Hartwell fell before College Hill, 57 to 23.

Canton Lehman, after a number of close calls, was upset by Youngstown South, 34 to 27, Saturday night. The previous evening, Lehman had racked up a 42-38 decision over Timken.

Canton McKinley's string stretched to ten with a double weekend success. Lincoln fell on Friday, 43-32, and the next night Youngstown Rayen was a 54-10-27 victim.

Nick Stevenson of the Bulldogs stole the show from his All-Ohio teammate, Pete Spera, against Lincoln with 22 points.

Cleveland was well represented by four unbeaten teams—Benedictine, which has won 22 straight, South, Euclid Shore and Westlake.

Bluffton's crack outfit chalked up two more for 11 in a row. The victims were Lima St. John, 42 to 34, and St. Mary's, 66 to 46. Neil Schmidt, brilliant Bluffton forward, hit the basket for 29 against St. Mary's.

Salem had a narrow squeak in defeating Warren, 42 to 41, for No. 7. Toledo Central breezed past Scott, 49 to 31; Chillicothe bounced over Wilmington, 35 to 24; Upper Arlington toyed with Columbus Academy, 51 to 28, and Bryan spanked Montpelier, 41 to 30.

Newark, Ashland, Findlay and East Liverpool were among once or twice beaten fives that looked impressive. Newark held its Central Ohio league lead by edging Zanesville, 47 to 44; Ashland (8-1) smashed Sandusky, 58 to 37; Findlay (8-2) won an easy 54-28 victory over Fostoria; East Liverpool, loser only to Salem, downed Steubenville, 57-44, and New Philadelphia, 56-46.

$75,000 PRIZE LIST ANNOUNCED FOR SPEEDWAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21—Wilbur Shaw, general manager of the Indianapolis motor speedway, announced today a guaranteed prize list of $75,000 for the 31st annual 500-mile race next May 30.

He declared the 1946 entry blank listed prizes totaling $61,500, but the speedway voluntarily increased the amount to $75,000 in order to make possible an all-time "melon" of $115,450 when the 33 contestants received their checks on the day following the race.

Shaw announced that changes in regulation for the 1947 event remove all minimum weight requirements and restrictions on body styles.

The only requirement this year will be the cars are heavy enough to be "trackworthy" in the opinion of the technical committee.

MOUNTAINEERS AGAIN ONE OF NATION'S BEST FIVES

ALTHOUGH only two of the 1945-46 team are regulars on the current squad, the University of West Virginia cagers once again are headed toward a top berth among the nation's quintets. Coached by Lee Patton, the Mountaineers have romped to wins over Fairmont, Carnegie Tech, Maryland and Penn State and head for New York where on Jan. 9 they meet St. Francis at the Garden. Last year the WVU team won 24 out of 27 games and third place in the Invitational tourney there. Two regulars from last year, Clyde Green, guard, and Capt. Leland Byrd, are regulars this year. Among the newcomers who have won spots on the club is Fred Shaus of Newark, O., a 6' 4" giant. (International)

OHIO STATE'S WIN STREAK IS HALTED AT PITT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21—Optimistic hopes that Ohio State had struck a winning basketball stride died aborning today before the greater weight of a staunch Buck road jinx.

Tippy Dye's Bucks dropped a 51-41 decision last night at Pittsburgh against the same Panther team they defeated in the first game of the season.

The loss was Ohio State's seventh straight away from home. The Bucks are still looking for that first road victory. At home, they have won three out of four. In losing, the Bucks suffered a relapse from the class they showed in whipping Northwestern Saturday. The Bucks led the Panthers by one point 21-20, at halftime but fell behind after the intermission.

Leading Ohio State efforts for the third straight game were a pair of comeback-minded 1945-46 regulars whose indifferent performances early in the year cost them their first team berths.

Jack Underman, lanky Bexley center, followed up his 17 points against Northwestern with 12 last night. Bob Bowen, Martins Ferry veteran, dropped in ten from a forward position.

A dispute with three minutes to play delayed the game nearly 20 minutes. After Pitt's Eddie Latagiate committed his fifth personal foul, Ohio counted a free throw and the Panthers a basket before the scorers could stop play and remove Latagiate.

SOFTBALL MEET SET FOR SUNDAY

Managers, Sponsors, League Officers Urged To Attend First 1947 Session

Despite the fact that snow flurries were noted Tuesday and the temperature was about the lowest of the year, some Circleville residents were thinking about softball.

President Ed Amey of the Night Softball league announced that the first meeting of the year would be held Sunday afternoon at Hanley's. Invited to the meeting are all persons interested in softball. Particularly invited are all prospective sponsors, managers and league officials.

Eight teams participated in last year's successful season. Officers chosen at the banquet which officially closed the season will be in charge of the league this Summer. In addition to Amey, they are John Heskell, secretary; Nolan "Nubby" Sims, treasurer; Clark Will, William Hamilton, Roy Beatty and Don Henkle, members of the softball commission.

Sunday's meeting is set for 2:30 p. m. in the banquet room on the second floor at Hanley's. League officials are hoping for a representative group of sponsors and managers so that preliminary plans for the new season may be made early.

FELLER SLATED TO SIGN UP FOR RECORD SALARY

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—Bob Feller, Cleveland's prince of hurlers, is slated to make baseball history once more today when he signs his 1947 contract to become the highest paid performer in major league history.

Fireballer Feller and youthful Bill Veeck, Indians' president, will meet today in Cleveland. If all goes as expected, Feller will put his signature to terms which will net him well above the $50,000 high grossed by New York's Babe Ruth.

Last year Bob just missed the mark. Working on a flat salary, plus attendance bonus, he earned an estimated $75,000, due mainly to Veeck's amazing showmanship which revived Cleveland baseball attendance.

Feller will have much to say in favor of the pay hike. Besides setting a new major league strikeout record last season, Bob hung up his second no-hitter, pitched a pair of one-bingle affairs, and topped the American circuit with 10 shutouts and 26 victories.

BROWNS SIGN THREE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—Jack Carpenter, 235-pound tackle from the University of Michigan, was signed to a contract today with the champion Cleveland Browns of the All-America football conference. At the same time, General Manager Coach Paul Brown announced the signing of two right halfbacks to bolster one of the few spots where the team showed a weakness last season. They are Jim Dewar of Indiana University and John Duda of the University of Virginia.

REVISED PLANS FOR ERIE-OHIO CANAL READY

Inland 'Seaport' For Upper Ohio Valley Seen By Waterway's Use

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21 — Revised plans for construction of a Lake Erie-Ohio river canal that would give the upper Ohio valley an inland "seaport," soon will be ready for presentation to congress.

Col. W. E. Lorence, Pittsburgh district Army engineer, said today the new canal would, under the new proposals, provide for handling of some lake carriers into Pittsburgh. The canal has been in various blueprint stages since 1939.

The canal's cost has not as yet been definitely computed. However Colonel Lorence explained that plans are far enough along "to start construction tomorrow."

The proposed canal would run from Ashtabula, O., to Rochester at the mouth of the Beaver river, 27 miles below Pittsburgh. The 14-foot channel would run up the Beaver and Mahoning rivers, through the Summit canal. Grand River reservoir and North Canal—a total length of 105 miles.

Colonel Lorence said that the original overall cost was estimated at 240 million dollars on the basis of nine-foot channels.

Costs of a 14-foot channel would be much higher. In addition, construction and labor costs have risen sharply.

The Army engineer pointed out the deeper channel would allow use of the canal by huge, self-propelled lake carriers, as well as river towboats and barges already operating on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and their tributaries.

Iron ore, for example, could be brought directly from Michigan and Minnesota mines to Pittsburgh steel mills via the channel. If it were dug, similarly, coal to Lake Erie ports could be moved directly from Ohio and Monongahela river mines.

NAVY LAUNCHES PROBE OF CRASH OF TRANSPORT

WAVE Killed, 20 Escape When Naval Plane Cracks Up At Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 21—The Navy launched an official investigation today into the crash of one of its own transport planes.

One enlisted WAVE, a member of the crew, was killed when the big four-engined hospital-type craft crashed at fog-bound Oakland municipal airport yesterday but 20 others aboard escaped death. The name of the dead girl was withheld.

All 20 survivors were given hospital treatment. Eight required surgical treatment but none was considered critically injured.

The injured included L. E. Pinkerton of New Bloomington, O., who suffered abrasions, and John K. Hiles of Mt. Vernon, O., who received lacerations.

The craft was on a regular run from Moffett field on the western side of the bay and was scheduled to pick up several hospital cases and proceed to Patuxent River, Md., via Los Angeles.

Commander R. C. Knowles of Moffett field was named to head the inquiry into the accident.

The plane was being "talked down" to a landing through the fog banks by GCA—ground controlled approach—when it crashed.

A preliminary Navy statement said:

"A possibility is that the pilot took over visually without being relieved by the GCA controller, mistaking the mud flats for the runway."

The pilot, Lieut. Clyde B. McKinney, Glendale, Cal., suffered lacerations in the crash but the co-pilot, Lieut. (jg) F. A. Michalek, of Great Mills, Md., was more seriously injured.

Mrs. Phillips Reviews Book At Monday Club

Mrs. Davis Reports On Cleveland's World Forum

Mrs. T. L. Houston, president, presided during Monday club meeting, held Monday evening in the Trustees' room of Memorial hall. Miss Eleanor Snyder served as secretary. Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mrs. Charles Gilmore and Mrs. Clinton Tomlinson were named to serve on a committee to collect used magazines for the Pickaway county home. Members of the club, voted to contribute to the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Ray Davis, south-east district president of woman's clubs gave a brief resume of the Time-Cleveland council forum, which was founded 21 years ago by Newton Baker. Mrs. Davis said, "There were 23 renowned speakers from 13 countries. The forum's two subjects for discussion were, What does the rest of the world expect from the United States? What is the United States going to do about it?"

Brooks Emeny, chairman of the council said "It is the essence of democracy that people can talk freely, it is the peril they can talk ignorantly." Mrs. Davis told her general impression "First an undercurrent of fear present in all the speeches. Second, fear of Russian and Communism. Third, fear of starvation and hopeless poverty. Fourth and last, fear of the atomic bomb." "They want United States to protect the world from the atomic bomb." The people are looking to the United States, and they know we Americans are their only hope. "These men were most sincere and conscious of making the most important speech of their lives," she stated.

Mrs. Robert Adkins, chairman of the evening program, quoted, "Every American finds fascination in the discovery of the strange circumstances by which familiar names came into being" and presented Mrs. G. D. Phillips, speaker of the evening in a review of the book "Names on the Land," by George R. Stewart.

Mrs. Phillips opened her discussion by stating that "Mr. Stewart had contributed another book, unique in the field of Americana. With a wealth of historical detail, he traces the origins and evolution of the principal places and names in the United States. Names have arisen in every conceivable fashion, by description, patriotic commemoration, ownership, accident and by irony. Humor has been a motive, along with the love of beauty, religion, advertising and sheer vanity."

Mr. Stewart was born in Pennsylvania. A graduate of Princeton University, and did his post-graduate work at the University of California, and Columbia University. At the present time he is Professor of English at the University of California, at Berkeley.

Mrs. Phillips in her review of "Names on the Land" said, "Once from East Eastern ocean-to western ocean, the land stretched away with out names. Nameless headlands split the surf, nameless lakes reflecting nameless mountains, and nameless rivers flowed through nameless valleys in to nameless bays."

"Men came at last, tribe following tribe, speaking different languages, and thinking different thoughts. The names grew out of life and life-blood. The names were good, and they were closely bound with the land itself and the adventures of the people. No one knows when man came or who gave the first names."

"An Indian tribe entering a new country, faced the problem of what to name their new locality. Rivers were the closest of all to life of the primitive man. Mountains, generally were unnamed, as they were so huge and vague. They named some 'high peaks,' because they were landmarks and lakes because they fished there. To say that a name is Indian is even less, than to say it is European, for among the tribes the languages differ, much more than English from French, Dutch or Russian."

Mrs. Phillips, told of the evening of April 2 1513, the first and lasting, name was given by men who came from overseas. Ponce de Leon and his crew looked into the sunset, saw a flowering land, and remembering that it was only six days after the Easter of Flowers. Named the new land, Florida."

"Ohio is an Indian word. The river was given that name due to the description, 'Oh' in the Iroquois language means road or river, while 'to' in the Huron language means fine or beautiful. The French wrote the whole word as Ohio, meaning beautiful river. The men then began to speak of the Ohio country, meaning the region north of the river."

"Shortly before the Revolution, they added suffixes to names. Burg is German or Dutch, borg is Swedish, bourg, French, burgus, Latin, burgo, Spanish, bury, English and burgh is a Scotch suffix. Therefore people said, 'What burg do you come from?'"

"In our early history of New York, like most American cities, Mrs. Phillips said, they had followed the European system of naming a street, to change its name at almost every intersection. In time to come they found out that the names of short streets had become, an inconvenience and they began to combine the streets, so that a single street name, began to cover a mile or more territory. In December 1793, New York adopted a system of house numbering."

"Ohio was unusually hospitable to foreign names. Most of the European capitals from Lisbon to Petersburg, had namesakes in Ohio before 1840. The appearance of many names, expressive of modern ideas, continued to show that American imagination was not decadent. Post offices were called, Xray, Electron, Radium, Gasoline and Radio. The variety of our names, arose naturally. The period of active naming extended over four centuries. During which time customs and fashions had a chance to change. Names drew upon various languages and races. The work was shared among all classes, from border ruffian to Boston Brahmin."

Mrs. Nelle Kuhn will assist the grade children in presenting the program for the February meeting.

In conclusion Mrs. Phillips, quoted directly from her book, "Names on the Land," "The land has been named, and the names are rooted deep. Let the conquerer come, or the revolution rage; many of our names have survived both, already and may again. Though the books should be burned and the people themselves cut off, still from the names the patient scholar may piece together some record of what we were."

Girl's Interest Group Has Meeting

Miss Margie Thornton was hostess, for members of the Girl's Interest group, of the First Methodist church Monday evening in her home on East Mound street. Mrs. L. S. Lytle, president of Woman's Society of Christian Service, First Methodist church and ten members of the group were present.

Guest Night Observed By Child Study Club

Mrs. Fritz Sieverts, North Pickaway street, entertained members and friends of the Child Study club, Monday evening, for the club's annual guest night. Mrs. Dane Patrick, Kingston, was assisting hostess at the affair. Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick, president, expressed greetings to the guests on behalf of the club members. Mrs. Hillaire Haecker offered a group of accordion selections, "Take Me Back to Sorrento," "Blue Danube Waltz" and "I Will Return."

Mrs. W. J. Herbert presented Mrs. Margaret Teeters, guest speaker from Lazarus book department. She chose for her subject, "Books for Children." Mrs. Teeters stressed the importance of mental nourishment and the effect of stimulation of books in the mental development of youngsters. "As a background for the appreciation of books a mother should begin reading and reciting to a child by the time it is two weeks old. Mother Goose is the first step in establishing the reading habit, which will pay untold dividends to the youngster throughout life. Reading out loud instills a desire for literature."

"There are many considerations to be used in choosing children's books. A large book is desirable for the young baby, followed by smaller books which may be easily handled and carried about." Mrs. Teeters considers illustrations to be as important as reading matter, when choosing literature for a youngster. "Children like pictures with bright colors and a lot of subject matter. Choose a book for its illustrations as well as its author. There are many adults who collect children's books, purely for the worthwhile illustrations, which are to be found in many."

"Keep in touch with the child's reading matter," Mrs. Teeters stressed that it is wise to keep desirable books available. "One should never worry or attract undue attention to literature that is seemingly unsuitable. Never discount a child's intelligence by offering books beneath his age level. It is better to have reading matter too advanced to stifle and bore a youngster with that which is too elementary."

Mrs. Teeters showed a selection of recent children's books, which she recommended. Following her lecture she gave a short discussion of each book. To illustrate the pleasure that all individuals derive from being read to, she concluded by reading, "Randolph the Bear, Who Said No."

A short business meeting followed, and Mrs. John Heiskell, secretary, submitted her report. Members voted to contribute to the March of Dimes. "Children Object" by Sabra Holbrook was donated by Mrs. Clarence Clark to the club library.

Guests were served refreshments at a long table, which was centered with a bowl of yellow and white chrysanthemums, flanked by tall lighted yellow tapers. Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick presided at the tea table.

MISS BRUNNER HOSTESS
Miss Sadie Brunner will entertain members of Group F, Woman's association of the Presbyterian church, Friday evening at 7:30 in her home on South Court street. NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

The arguments being developed, chiefly in Democratic circles but now also eating their way into the Republican tax theory, to upset the flat 20 percent cut, are therefore considerably unrealistic. In this connection, a tax expert in congress has been found who has pointed out to me the place in the income tax instructions where you are told you might get back the 3 percent normal tax on income from federal bonds. This provision is obscured by a headline for which a copy reader on any newspaper would have been fired. It tells nothing.

Nowhere on the form is there any category for deducting legally non-taxable interest, but there is a place for you to pay it. Indeed the form requires you to submit it in your income. Unquestionably, the taxpayer is giving the government interest it is not legally entitled to collect, and he never knows the difference.

So then while the war debt is a somewhat staggering new influence in the economy, the carrying of it is not as heavy as publicly proclaimed. Cutting it down is necessary in the interests of all people whose economy is irretrievably wrapped up in it through their bonds and bank deposits. But the Truman balanced budget only calls for retirement of $200 millions or so of the $260 billions, a modest amount. Ordinarily the situation would seem to call for a debt retirement program to run through the years. A certain definite amount could be set aside annually for retirement and this figure could be accumulated from budget pruning and elimination of waste. A debt retirement program adopted at this time to set aside a certain amount in each future year would put government emphasis on saving and financial efficiency.

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

SAN DIEGO TAKES RED TAPE OFF ARMY CAMP AND GIVES LOW-COST HOUSING TO VETS

OUT OF THIS RUBBLE at Camp Callan, 1,500 veterans are getting buildings and fixtures.

HOSPITAL WARDS are cut into three units and then partitioned into two-bedroom homes.

By HAROLD KEEN

Central Press Correspondent SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Fifteen hundred veterans' families today have new homes of their own because the city of San Diego literally bagged the United States Army into selling it a camp three miles long, one-half mile wide, and containing 520 buildings. Not only have homes risen from the "ruins" of Camp Callan, but the city, by driving an astonishingly hard bargain, has emerged with a handsome profit.

Surveying the virtually flattened area—which appears so much like an atomic bomb target that it is known as "Little Hiroshima"—Mayor Harley E. Knox recalls with grim satisfaction how seemingly red tape was unraveled by "what the government probably thought was out: detestable persistence."

Veterans who had tumbled over booby-trap technicalities in war surplus sales and had found their priorities to be mere hunting licenses for materials have been amazed at the ease with which they could buy entire structures, or the salvaged lumber, when doing business with the city. Last November, Camp Callan, commissioned early in 1941 as an anti-aircraft replacement training center, was declared surplus. For almost five years the Army had paid one dollar per annum to the city for its lease to the vast acreage—once a battlefield—on the picturesque Torrey Pines cliffs overlooking the Pacific. Now the city, lumber-starved, saw in the abandoned buildings the answer to many a veteran's dream.

For weeks Mayor Knox and his aides pleaded, argued, begged and talked tough to crack the Washington bottleneck. The city was willing to pay $200,000 for all the structures, and to waive a lease requirement that the Army restore the grounds to their pre-war aspect. Last February the transaction almost was consummated. But there was a joker. The government was to get all net proceeds from sale of the materials, all dismantling and sales were to be supervised by the Civilian Production Administration, and all materials had to be sold to veterans for homes of moderate cost.

"Nothing doing," said Knox. "We don't need another federal agency looking over our shoulders. And besides, how can ALL materials go into veterans' homes?" He pointed to three large steam boilers in the power plant. And a huge traveling crane in the machine shop. And hundreds of other items that could be used only in industries.

The city demanded full jurisdiction over, and profits from "Operation Callan." A month later the Army yielded, and the chain reaction was immediate and phenomenal.

Kingston Ten members and one guest of Brownie troop No. 21, enjoyed a trip to Chillicothe, Monday evening, to see the new train "The Cincinnati" which was on display there. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brooks, Miss Dottie Downing and Mrs. Dwight Williams accompanied the following little girls: Ruth Ann Brooks, Diana Williams, Joy Anderson, Nancy Paxton, Anna Roll, Mary Ellen Taylor, Mary Jo Wolfe, Barbara Kay Francis, June Sherwood, Patty Kay Kreisel and Kay Williams.

Kingston Miss Mary Gardner, who has spent the past several weeks, with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Gardner, left this week for Los Angeles, Calif.

Kingston Carl Chaney, Columbus, visited Sunday, with his friend Sol D. Riegel and Mrs. Alice Riegel.

Kingston Mrs. Dwight Williams and Mrs. H. V. Biery were visitors in Columbus, Monday.

Kingston Mrs. J. C. Minor was hostess to her euchre club, Wednesday evening at her home on South Main street. Those enjoying the evening were: Mrs. W. L. Evans, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Russell Brooks, Mrs. Ott Davis, Mrs. Roxie Emrich, Mrs. Bessie Smith, Mrs. H. H. Buch-

"Come and get it!" the cry went out. Veterans by the hundreds swooped down on Camp Callan. They bid on buildings that could be moved away to their own lots. Inexperience and desperation brought fantastic offers voluntarily trimmed by the city. A high bid of $9,700 on a service building was knocked down to $1,000.

Structures too big to be moved were sold to veterans who did their own dismantling, with the help of wives, children and in-laws. Or the buildings were torn down by contractors for cost plus fixed fee—with the city keeping a stern eye on the cost—and a huge sales yard was established for salvaged lumber and scarce electrical and plumbing supplies, available only to veterans.

One Barracks—Three Homes Messhalls and hospital wards were chopped into two and three bedroom homes costing from $1,175 to $1,500 each. The average barracks building, which had to be dismantled on the spot, sold for $800, and yielded 32,000 board feet of lumber, enough for three homes. At the OPA ceiling price of $40 per thousand board feet, this amounted to between 12 and 13 hundred dollars worth of lumber, the "profit" to the veteran being, of course, absorbed in wrecking and handling costs.

The city found buyers for buildings and materials of no use to veterans for homes. The main boiler plant was sold to a citrus packing house. Three chapels were purchased by churches. An exhibitor bought the outdoor theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Reese Sibrell, Mrs. Claude Reynolds and Mrs. W. A. Francis.

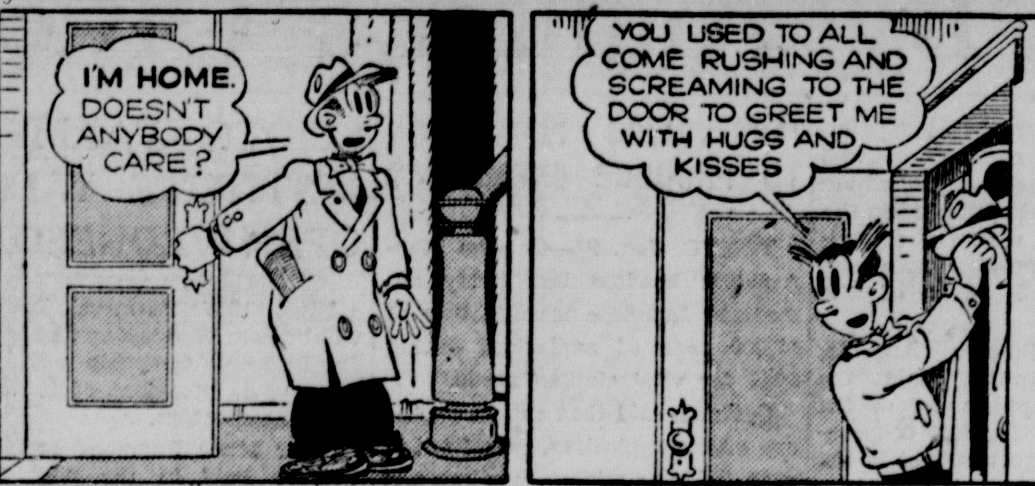

High, second and low score prizes went to Mrs. Buchwalter, Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Francis.

Mrs. Minor served refreshments at the close of the evening, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Russell Liston.

Kingston Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Humphrey, left Monday, for their home in Dayton, after visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McGinnis.

In Washington, a hundred radio listeners (business men, housewives etc.) have been listening to radio for years, finally decided they weren't getting all they wanted from it.

With the approval of the FCC, they went into the business for themselves and set up their own program schedule.

The new station operates under the call letters WQQW with a plan that limits time given to commercials; eliminates singing jingles, kids' rip-snorting adventure programs and the suds serials; plays "good" music, and generally caters to the cultural tastes.

Ten years older than WQQW, which only recently began broadcasting, is local New York broadcaster, WQXR, a commercial station that is popular and prosperous. Most of the broadcast day is devoted to music, primarily symphony, operatic, chamber music and the lighter classics.

Advertising copy is carefully scanned before being aired and singing commercials are broadcast only if they meet the standards set up by the station.

WQXR is located on the dial way at the upper end where reception is most difficult, but half a million people fidget willingly with their dials to hear the station's music, hourly newscasts (none of which are permitted to be sponsored) and forums.

Music brought WQXR its listen-

More Than 3,000 New Dog Licenses Issued By Auditor's Office

OFFICE RUSHED AS DOG OWNERS BEAT DEADLINE

Final Report On License Sale Unknown Until Mail Applications Filled

Sales of new 1947 dog licenses in Pickaway county are larger than in 1946 it was disclosed Tuesday by County Auditor Forrest Short.

Monday was the deadline for buying the new dog tags and starting Tuesday a penalty of $1, as decreed by state law, must be added to the license price.

Auditor Short said a total of 2,908 tags had been issued when his office closed Monday afternoon following the usual last minute rush. At least 100 letters containing remittances for the tags but which had not yet been opened and tabulated Tuesday morning boosted the total sale to at least 3,008.

It was explained that remittance letters carrying a postmark before midnight Monday would permit the applicants to avoid payment of the $1 penalty.

Auditor Short, as a convenience to dog owners, permitted applications for dog licenses to be made by mail.

Under state law every dog over the age of three months is required to be licensed. The license cost—without the $1 penalty—is $1 for male, $3 for female, and $1 for spayed female.

SPEAKER TELLS HEALTH NEEDS

Problems Facing State Are Outlined By P. C. Bechtol For Kiwanians

Pearl C. Bechtol, connected with the health and physical education division of the state department of education, outlined some of the health problems facing Ohio at the Kiwanis meeting Monday evening in Hanley's.

The speaker stated that crowds at athletic contests gave evidence that Ohioans are interested in sports for children. He also pointed to the increase in the number of football and baseball teams and the general approval last year of bond issues, funds from which will be used to expand physical education programs.

Advantages of sports were listed as the learning of fair play, team work, loyalty, cooperation, tolerance and justice. He listed among weaknesses of the program the lack of sportsmanship by adults who wanted their team to win; no carryover value, that is, sports learned in school help little after students are graduated; lack of democracy, gyms and football fields are usually restricted to the select group on the school's team; lack of leaders to give all schools a well-rounded program; lack of time in schools; lack of vision by some school boards, who cannot see the value of physical training for Ohio youth.

Mr. Bechtol listed as the chief problems facing Ohioans now: mental and social hygiene problems, safety education, health education. He pointed out that the divorce rate is increasing, juvenile delinquency is up; traffic deaths are too high. He declared that with cooperation of service clubs, schools, parents and the general public with state officials these situations could be improved.

The speaker was introduced by Harold Defenbaugh, program chairman. Guests at the meeting were the Rev. James A. Herbst, Ray Goetting and Dan McClain.

general secretary of the American Dental association said that "all the dentists in the United States are only enough to care for one-half of the new cavities without filling the old ones."
